Personal Property Exemption Rapped

. . . BY SEVERAL ASSESSORS

By GERRY SWITZER

Star Staff Writer

Several county assessors expressed concern last week at their annual meeting in Omaha over personal property exemption to be proposed again in the 1972 session of the legislature.

State Sen. Jules Burbach of Webster, who introduced the legislation which was passed by the Legislature but vetoed by the governor last year and who has promised a similar bill this year, asked the assessors to express views on exemption.

Several indicated that exemption could be a never ending thing. One assessor said, "How far should it go — if we exempt one kind of property, the next year it will be another exemption because we'll have somebody else on our backs."

Need To Lift Ceiling

One assessor said that if personal property exemption does pass, the tax base for counties' source of revenue will be less and would probably necessitate lifting the levy ceiling for counties in order to raise enough money for county expenses.

In response to one assessor's question about making up the deficit through real estate taxes, Burbach said that his bill clearly spelled out that the money would come from the state's sales and income tax sources.

"I would be the first to oppose such legislation if the money were to come from real estate," he said.

Still Individual

Others noted that the individual would still be picking up the burden in order to exempt any property regardless of whether the deficit is made up at the local or state level.

He said it was his understanding that if a county's levy is seven mills, it would get back $7 on every $1,000 lost, while a county with the maximum levy of 14.25 mills would get back $14.25 on every $1,000.

Amendment 10 which allowed for the legislature to classify property and was passed by the voters last year had been opposed by the Nebraska County Officials Association last year on the grounds that such passage would result in loss of authority at the local level and narrowing of the tax base.

The assessors turned down at last year's convention a proposal by the legislative committee to go on record opposing it, noting that the legislative committee of the state association of county officials should take the official stand.

This Wednesday, for example, local craftsmen and carpenters will show ways to save by making minor home repairs. Future classes will cover yard keeping, how to live under a household budget and how to put nutrition back into meals.

At last Wednesday's meeting, Opp told the group, "When you use credit, you are buying the use of money. So why pay a high price for your money when you can get it cheap?"

Finance companies may charge 2½% inand want exemption," one assessor said.

State Sen. Walter Epke of York, another member of the Legislative Interim Tax Study Committee present at the assessors' meeting, argued that why shouldn't someone who has tools or machinery in the form of equipment to perform his job be entitled to exemption when someone who has some training or education to prepare him for his job pays no tax on that education or training.

Both are a type of equipment for use in making money, he said.

A western Nebraska county assessor who said he also owns livestock and farm equipment said he was concerned the state would be shifting the tax burden to the urban areas by exempting property.

He said if such exemption does result in more industry and jobs as the proponents of the legislation state "we will create more need for public services and in so doing will create more need for revenue and gradually the property taxes will be back up."

An appraiser who was present at the session who indicated he was also a local school board member said that as he understood the proposed legislation for exempting personal property and reimbursing the counties from state funds, the counties would be encouraged to keep valuations down in order to have a high levy and get back more reimbursement.

THIEU GAINS 'CONFIDENCE'

Protesting Mars Vote

. . . RIOTING BLOODY

Saigon (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu was assured Monday of an overwhelming "vote of confidence" far in excess of the 50% he had asked in his unopposed but violence-marred bid for re-election.

With final results tabulated in all but eight of South Vietnam's 56 voting constituencies, authorities said Thieu had won an average of 94.4% of the ballots cast, with 5.6% against him.

87.7% Nationwide

Election officials claimed that nationwide, a record 87.7% of the more than seven million registered voters cast their ballots.

Thieu, the only presidential candidate, had specified 50% of the vote as necessary for the "vote of confidence" he sought in the one-man elections. He had said he would resign if he did not get many votes.

South Vietnamese could vote against him by mutilating or defacing their ballots or by putting an empty envelope in the ballot box.

Hue City Lowest

Sadec province in the Mekong Delta had the highest pro-Thieu vote, with 99.8% and Thieu's province of Ninh Thuan reported 98.6% of its ballots for the president.

The lowest figure recorded was 64.3% in Hue City, long a center of antigovernment feeling.

The election was marred by enemy shellings, terrorism, and bloody street rioting which left more than 21 persons dead and more than 100 wounded across the country.

The mayor of Da Nang, Col. Nguyen Ngoc Khoi, said Monday that one person had been killed in the rioting there — a demonstrator caught in the explosion of a grenade thrown by a war veteran.

Wounded By Grenades

He said that grenade wounded four other rioters and eight policemen were wounded by a second grenade blast.

There were numerous accounts of police and troops shooting directly at the rioters and of people being wounded, but Khoi said his men "did not fire at anybody and did not wound anybody."

In Da Nang, South Vietnam's second-largest city, at least 57 persons were wounded in anti-Thieu street disorders.

Clashes Taper Off

The day-long clashes between protesters and police tapered off by late afternoon and Da Nang was reported quiet overnight.

Thieu cast his own ballot at Saigon's City Hall. He told newsmen that winning the 50% margin would not guarantee that he will accept another term.

"I will consider all the factors," he said, speaking before the size of the vote in his favor became apparent.

The president also reported his pledge to retire when he achieves peace.

"Another four-year term is less important to me than the opportunity to bring peace to Vietnam," he said. "The important thing is that I achieve peace, whether that be in three to five months or in one to two years."

Enemy Failed

He also declared the enemy had failed in its efforts to disrupt the voting.

In the hours just before the polls opened, enemy forces launched rocket and mortar attacks on at least 12 cities, towns and military installations, killing 17 Vietnamese and wounding 33, according to South Vietnamese officials.

At least one American also was killed in the shellings, which the Viet Cong apparently intended as a traditional reminder of their presence.

In Saigon, three persons were killed and five were hurt by three Soviet-designed 122mm rockets in the first attack on the capital since Dec. 19, 1970.

Other Targets

Other targets were air bases at Bien Hoa and Da Nang, a training camp at Vung Tau, the provincial capitals of Tay Ninh, Can Tho, Vinh Long and Quang Ngai, and three district towns.

Opp said a loan from your mother, Kenwood Opp of the Credit Bureau of Lincoln advised a consumer education class recently begun at Lincoln Air Park.

But when Mother can't come through with the necessary funds, Opp said, it pays to know where money costs less money.

Dock Strike Progress Reported

By The Associated Press

The dock strike that closed ports from Canada to Mexico enters its 96th day on Monday, making it the longest in West Coast history, and mediators said Sunday the negotiators were making some progress.

Negotiations in the East Coast dock strike — that started Friday and produced the first coast-to-coast longshoremen's walkout — were scheduled to resume Monday. Union negotiators in the mine workers' walkout were to report to their members Monday.

J. Curtis Counts, the chief federal mediator who has been meeting with both sides in the West Coast strike, said Sunday in San Francisco, "We are nearer a settlement than we were before and we're still trying."

Old Mark 95 Days

Until now, the longest dock strike in Pacific coast history was a walkout 23 years ago that was settled on Christmas Eve after 95 days.

The work stoppage by 15,000 longshoremen has shut down 24 ports from Canada to Mexico since July 1, causing financial losses estimated at more than $1.5 billion in California alone.

After a meeting with both sides in Oregon Sept. 25, President Nixon announced that negotiators promised to try for a settlement by the weekend. Counts said Nixon has made no further pleas with either side since then.

Making Progress

Edwin Scott, regional director of the Federal Mediation Service, said "substantial progress" had been made by Friday, but he said Sunday: "I never said we'd have it all wrapped up this weekend. We're making progress, however."

At issue is a dispute over loading certain container cargo, plus the longshoremen's demands for a 34.7% wage hike, a guaranteed 40-hour work week and more fringe benefits.

Involved in the East Coast walkout are 45,000 members of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association.

Center Of Dispute

The guaranteed wage issue is at the center of the dispute. The union seeks retention of a contract provision guaranteeing eligible longshoremen 2,080 hours of pay a year — the equivalent of 52 weeks at 40 hours a week. The New York Shipping Association said the plan cost shippers $15 million last year and wants it revised.

There were no developments Sunday in the strike by 80,000 members of the United Mine Workers in 20 states. The walkout began Friday following expiration of the union contract with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association. The union is seeking an increase in the current top pay of $37 to $50 a day and increased industry payments to its welfare and retirement fund.

The effects of the strike continued to spread. The Santa Fe Railway cancelled runs of an 84-car train that carries 100 tons of coal per car from a mine in northeastern New Mexico to a Kaiser Steel Corp. plant in Fontana, Calif. The last run of the train — which normally runs every four days — was Thursday night, just before 196 miners walked off the job. A Santa Fe spokesman said the shutdown represented "quite a loss of revenue."

School Chiefs Disagree On Title I Controversy

By MILAN WALL

Star Staff Writer

Although few contend that either private schools or church-state principles will stand or fall on resolution of the Nebraska controversy over Title I funds, there is wide disagreement on how the issue is tied to the larger concerns.

"Strictly speaking," says Lincoln School Supt. John Prasch, the Title I battle is a question of disagreement between state statute and federal guidelines.

But Prasch called the issue "one facet in various pressures to break the church-state wall that are happening on every point and on different fronts."

"It fits into those issues in terms of a nationwide attempt to get public funds for private schools on many points at the state and federal levels."

Differing Assessment

Providing a widely differing assessment is Father James Dawson, superintendent of Roman Catholic schools in the Lincoln diocese:

"Title I will never save any private school," Father Dawson said.

And he said he believes

"there is no relationship between Title I and the church-state issue."

"The truth of the matter is that our U.S. Congress sees no church-state problem here," Dawson told The Star.

"The vast majority of states see no church-state problem," he added.

Created A Problem

"Nebraska is one of the few states which has created a problem for itself."

The two superintendents are the principal Lincoln figures in a battle with direct statewide implications that has reached into the nation's capital.

The immediate issue is over administration of federal funds allocated under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education (ESEA) Act of 1965, which provides monies to help educationally deprived and handicapped children through such programs as remedial reading, speech therapy and other services.

Nebraska's Catholic educators had hoped that some of the funds could be used through the local public school systems, to put non-instructional aides into private

Personal Property Exemption Rapped

. . . BY SEVERAL ASSESSORS

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Several county assessors expressed concern last week at their annual meeting in Omaha over personal property exemption to be proposed again at the 1972 session of the Legislature.

State Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton, who introduced the legislation which was passed by the Legislature but vetoed by the governor last year and who has promised a similar bill this year, asked the assessors to express views on exemption.

Several indicated that exemption could be a never ending thing. One assessor said, "How far should it go — if we exempt one kind of property, the next year it will be another exemption because we'll have somebody else on our backs."

Need To Lift Ceiling

One assessor said that if personal property exemption does pass, the tax base for counties' source of revenue will be less and would probably necessitate lifting the levy ceiling for counties in order to raise enough money for county expenses.

In response to one assessor's question about making up the deficit through real estate taxes, Burbach said that his bill "clearly spelled out" that the money would come from the state's sales and income tax sources.

"I would be the first to oppose such legislation if the money were to come from real estate," he said.

Still Individual

Others noted that the individual would still be picking up the burden in order to exempt any property regardless of whether the deficit is made up at the local or state level.

One individual stated that one exemption will merely call for another and continue to snowball until every group which has the backing to get exemption legislation will do so while the small businessman and individual will pay the bill.

"Pretty soon after livestock and farm equipment are exempted, the processor will want exemption on his equipment and the trucks and railroads will come in and say that 'if we didn't haul it to you, you could not get it exempted.'

The assessors turned down at last year's convention a proposal by the legislative committee to go on record opposing it, noting that the legislative committee of the state association of county officials should take the official stand.

Amendment 10 which allowed for the legislature to classify property and was passed by the voters last year had been opposed by the Nebraska County Officials Association last year on the grounds that such passage would result in loss of authority at the local level and narrowing of the tax base.

Another strain on the family budget is caused by uninsured medical expenses, Opp said. He advised the 10 class members to take out a group plan if one is offered where they work, and if not, then to take out Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

Opp also had advice on dealing with "the most expensive thing" people buy. It costs an average of 22 cents a mile to drive a car, Opp told the class. Even that unused junker in the backyard costs money simply to own it, he added.

The cheapest way to drive is to own a well-taken-care-of, 10-year-old car, he continued. But if it's a massive, gas-guzzling "luxury" car, it may be better to trade it in for a new, economy model.

There are three reasons a used car is put up for sale, Opp warned: it's worn out, it needs repairs or the former owner couldn't afford to make the payments.

The second most expensive item a family can own is a color television, which costs an average of $100 a year to maintain in addition to the original cost, Opp continued.

Information on enrollment in the free class, which meets at 7 p.m. Wednesdays, is available through the Lincoln Technical College.

Saigon — Nguyen Van Thieu won re-election to a second four-year term as president of South Vietnam in a one-candidate election marked by scattered protests, intensified enemy shelling and, apparently, one of the largest voters turnouts in recent South Vietnamese history. Early returns showed that only a small fraction of the voters voted against Thieu by mutilating or throwing their ballots away. (More on Page 1.)

Schools, Hospitals Aided

Washington — Private schools and hospitals in Israel will receive $10,750,000 in foreign aid that the House added to the foreign aid authorization bill and the Senate is expected to add more. The growing practice of using foreign aid bills to provide funds to foreign schools and hospitals has caused some concern. Senator J. W. Fulbright said that some congressmen are using foreign aid to aid pet projects abroad. (More on Page 16.)

Manila — Violence is a common fact of life in the Philippines as it is in many countries but it is not the way of life here. Few signs of political or social upheaval were encountered in a five-week tour of the country by a Times correspondent.

Search Is Renewed

Washington — The Nixon administration was reported to be back at the beginning in its search for new supreme court justices after the withdrawal from consideration of Rep. Richard H. Poff. An official said that no one else had even been considered. The result leaves the seven-member court facing an even longer delay than it had anticipated before the two vacancies are filled.

Crime By Children Up

New York — Parents, police and school officials were reported to be growing concerned over crime by children, some of it serious and committed by youngsters not yet in their teens. While there are no figures kept, most juvenile authorities feel that both the victims and the perpetrators have gotten younger. Most of the crime is petty, but serious and violent crimes are not uncommon.

Automation Arrives

Dorches Crossroad, N.C. — Automation has come to the last stronghold of the small farmer in the country — the Carolina-Virginia tobacco belt. The coming of machines to harvest the crop is expected to drastically reduce the dependence of the growers on expensive hand labor. This, in turn, is expected to set off another farm-to-city, south-to-north migration by the black workers.

Decision Handled Down

Grand Rapids, Mich. — In what was seen as a landmark decision, a federal judge in Michigan ordered a large fruit and vegetable grower to pay damages for interfering with visits to a family in one of his migrant labor camps. Judge Noel P. Fox said in his ruling that although migrant workers only temporarily reside on a grower's property they have the same constitutional rights as any other citizens.

Biochemist Battles New Corn Disease

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

Farm Editor

A pretty, dark eyed mother of two small children has played a major role in the battle against Southern Corn Leaf Blight and the newly-discovered Goss's Wilt and Blight, both of which affect many acres of Nebraska's corn crop.

Dr. Ann Vidiver, wife of Dr. George Vidiver, a biochemist and professor at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, and mom to 3-year-old Gordon and 9-month-old Regina.

Dr. Vidiver and Dr. M. L. Schuster have studied hundreds, if not thousands, of plant samples and have grown innumerable samples of bacteria in the cramped quarters of the University Plant Pathology Dept. lab on the east campus in Lincoln.

Dr. Vidiver's interest in developing specific cures for plant diseases led to a close study of diseased plants in Dawson County, which eventually led to the discovery of a new corn disease.

Became Suspicious

Asked how such a disease could develop unnoticed, Dr. Vidiver said, "It could have been around for many years and some single or more likely some combination of factors, such as cropping practices, new varieties of corn, or perhaps something else, came along and created conditions ideal for the disease to develop."

Expected To Return

Dr. Vidiver expects the disease to return next year, and believes it could be a greater problem to the farmer than Southern Corn Leaf Blight.

"We know it can overwinter on the surface of soil and in plant material trash in a field and we know it can be carried on the surface of seed."

"We also know that it needs some kind of wound to the plant to get it started, such as hail, wind damage or some other kind of injury. We know there are differences in the plants' and varieties' ability to withstand the disease, but you couldn't actually say we have a resistant variety at this point."

Dr. Vidiver hopes to find some way to attack the disease, either with a chemical that will destroy it or an antibiotic that could be used as a spray, or possibly develop a disease to attack the disease.

She hopes to find a virus that will attack the disease organism which could be used to identify the disease in a few hours instead of the present 10-day series of tests now required.

"If we can find a virus that will kill all the bacteria we might be able to develop a virus type of seed treatment or a spray. We need to find something that is specific to the disease which will destroy only the disease and not bother the plants or any animal."

"Since we are working with a virus, we might even stumble onto a cure for the common cold as a by-product of our research. We have found a substance we call 'intefuron' which interferes with the normal activity of a virus — in fact several viruses," she said.

Dr. Mike Boosalis, chairman of the Department of Plant Pathology, would like to get a permanent appointment for Dr. Vidiver.

"Without her and Dr. Schuster we would have been in real trouble with the blight and the new Goss's Wilt in corn this year," he said.

Nixon's Phase II To Include Hospital And Doctors' Costs

Washington (P) — The secretary of Health, Education and Welfare said Sunday the Nixon administration plans to include controls on hospital and doctors' costs in Phase 2 of the new economic program.

Secretary Elliott L. Richardson said since Nixon announced his program Aug. 15 to stem inflation and unemployment, the department has been working with the Cost of Living Council on sanctions for after the wage-price freeze ends.

"Because the very rapid rate these costs have been rising year after year, we do intend to include specific measures to deal with them," Richardson said. He gave no specifics.

Richardson made his comments on the NBC radio-television program "Meet the Press."

Richardson said also the Nixon administration in addition may send a proposal to Congress supplementing the President's health-insurance bills to deal with costs and quality of medical services.

Richardson said since the administration has "proposed to mandate health insurance coverage for all families and all workers . . . that we should also hold assurances that cost and quality of medical care are going to be protected."

Crop estimators have been measuring and weighing test plots, so some actual harvest data should help give a fairly accurate figure for this year's crop following the Oct. 12 cutoff date for grain trade.

Counters have found fewer hogs this year, which should serve to depress grain prices even further. Fewer corn-eaters will require less corn.

Perhaps some farmers will read the report and decide to save back a few gills this year. Others will wait until the price of gills is out of sight and then buy, so they can market their piglets right smack in the middle of the glut on the market.

"We thought it was Stewart's Wilt. However, in 1970 we found it in plants that should have been resistant to Stewart's Wilt and we began to suspect either a mutation of the old disease or the possibility of a new one.

"We began to see different symptoms in young plants and then did some rather extensive detective work in the lab. The cell structure under the light microscope was different, and by using different stains we were able to confirm that we actually had a new disease," she said.

Dr. Vidiver describes the disease as "a club-shaped bacteria similar to alfalfa and bean wilts."

"By subjecting the bacteria to different environments we learned we had a new disease, not an old one that had found a new plant. This is the only positive plant pathogen that has been reported on corn. The disease affects field corn, sweet corn and pop corn," she said.

Asked how such a disease could develop unnoticed, Dr. Vidiver said, "It could have been around for many years and some single or more likely some combination of factors, such as cropping practices, new varieties of corn, or perhaps something else, came along and created conditions ideal for the disease to develop."

"Inners and outers" never make money. If a person wants to make a living raising pork, do it the year around. Don't jump in and out.

Farmers are killing themselves and their children at an appalling rate in tractor accidents this year. Kids love to ride with each other or with dad, but have a tendency to fall off and get injured or killed. Old timers find farm equipment dangerous, as well, with three persons over 80 years of age losing their lives so far this year. The youngest fatality was a 4-year-old run over by a silage cutter.

It isn't easy to tell the kids no when they want to ride, but then it isn't easy to tell your wife you just killed one of the kids either.

One positive result that came from Governor Exon's efforts to delay the CCC call up of grain under loan was to change the date of normal call up of loan grain at a time when prices are likely to be higher.

Farmers seldom sell on a rising market but a study of grain prices shows that over a period of years it is higher in late May than in late July, which should prove to be a better time to sell grain that might be bought back from a loan agreement.

This information came to light during the filming of an interview between Sen. Carl Curtis and Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Clarence Palmy.

Farmers had ample time to redeem the corn at a price above the loan, and many did. But there is still a lot of corn that should have been sold at the better price. Had the deadline been May 31 instead of July 31 there would have been a good deal less grumbling and a good deal more money in farmers pockets.

No doubt the price would have been lower on June 1 under these conditions than it actually was, but officials at USDA feel farmers could have redeemed their corn at a profit.

You can expect some positive action to be taken to end the present West Coast dock strike and to ease the threat or end the prospects of a dock strike on the east and gulf coasts soon.

Other moves to strengthen farm prices could come about Oct. 15 if the decision making process at USDA is not hung up at the Bureau of the Budget or Office of Management and Budget.

The information from the crop report should be evaluated by that time. If the administration really felt the farm vote is of value we could see a sharp increase in set-aside or at the very least on a voluntary basis and a small increase in the loan rate on feed grains. If they don't do something, it means they figure they can win the next election without the farmers.

3 Die In Crash At Top Of Hill

... TRAIN KILLS COED

By The Associated Press
Four more Nebraskans have died in traffic accidents, three of them in a two-car crash in the northeastern part of the state.

The deaths raised the state highway fatality count for the year to 337, compared with 314 on Oct. 4, 1970.

Robert Furstenau, 20, his brother, Steven R., 18, and Allan Escript, 17, all of Neligh, died late Saturday night in an accident five miles east of Neligh on a county road.

Officers said the car driven by Robert Furstenau and one driven by Douglas G. Jessen, 17, also of Neligh, collided at the crest of a hill.

Lyndia Foster, 18, of

Alliance, a coed at Chadron State College, was killed early Sunday when the car in which she was riding was in collision with a freight train.

Officers said the southbound car driven by Richard Best, 18, of Alliance, struck the eastbound Union Pacific freight train. The engineer of the train was Gerald Gleason of North Platte.

Best and a passenger in the car, Danita Bowman, 18, of Alliance, were hospitalized. Best attended Kearney State College, while both girls were enrolled at Chadron State College, police said.

The accident happened at a crossing in West Kearney.

Missouri River Inflows High

Omaha — The six large Missouri River main stem reservoirs this year experienced the greatest inflows since initial fill of the reservoir system in 1967. Current estimates place the 1971 inflows at 130% of the long term average. The reservoirs stored eight million acre-feet of water during the early spring and summer high runoff periods, limiting releases at that time to amounts required for project purposes including maintenance of storage reserves for additional flows. The impounded flood flows reduced downstream stages on the Missouri River as much as nine feet.

Minatare Company Sold

Minatare (AP) — W. F. "Bill" Smith has announced the Colossal Cattle Company, a new Angus breeding firm, has acquired the total assets — reported at about $25 million — of Shalco Land and Cattle Company headquartered in Minatare.

Smith, of Minatare and the former president and directing partner of Shalco, is the president of the corporation. He said also involved in the transactions are a 40,000-head feedlot, headquarters offices and sale and support facilities at Minatare and complete breeding, grazing and sale facilities at Sugar Loaf Farm near Staunton, Va. Both included a total of 50,000 acres in Nebraska, Texas and Virginia.

Omaha Youth Killed In Bar

Omaha (AP) — A man was killed and three other persons were wounded early Sunday during a shooting incident at the Workmens Club in South Omaha.

Police said 19-year-old Henry Bussby was dead on arrival at the Douglas County Hospital. Officers said he suffered a bullet wound in the head.

Taken to Veterans Hospital with a bullet wound in the head was Staff Sgt. Carl Tucker, 23 of Bellevue. He was listed in serious condition.

Attendants at the Offutt Air Force Base hospital said 19-year-old Airman 1C Ronnie Jetton of Offutt was in good condition.

3 Die In Crash At Top Of Hill

. . . TRAIN KILLS COED

By The Associated Press

Four more Nebraskans have died in traffic accidents, three of them in a two-car crash in the northeastern part of the state.

The deaths raised the state highway fatality count for the year to 337, compared with 314 on Oct. 4, 1970.

Robert Furstenau, 20, his brother, Steven R., 18, and Allan Escritt, 17, all of Neligh, died late Saturday night in an accident five miles east of Neligh on a county road.

Officers said the car driven by Robert Furstenau and one driven by Douglas G. Jessen, 17, also of Neligh, collided at the crest of a hill.

Lyndia Foster, 18, of

Alliance, a coed at Chadron State College, was killed early Sunday when the car in which she was riding was in collision with a freight train.

Officers said the southbound car driven by Richard Best, 18, of Alliance, struck the eastbound Union Pacific freight train. The engineer of the train was Gerald Gleason of North Platte.

Best and a passenger in the car, Danita Bowman, 18, of Alliance, were hospitalized. Best attended Kearney State College, while both girls were enrolled at Chadron State College, police said.

The accident happened at a crossing in West Kearney.

Superior Creamery To Expand

Superior — The Superior creamery, operated by Mid-America Dairymen, Inc., is to expand. The Lepriño Cheese Company will operate a cheese slicing and wrapping plant in conjunction with the creamery. Mid-America will build a 65- by 120-foot building north of the present cheese plant. The building will be in the center of the present 2nd Street, and will be built of cement blocks.

New Doctor Welcomed In Loup City

Loup City — The Loup City Clinic now has another doctor on its staff. Dr. Darvin Ritchie joined his brother, Dr. Gary Ritchie. Dr. Ritchie received his bachelors degree from the University of Colorado at Boulder, graduated from the University of Oklahoma College of Medicine and spent his year of general rotating internship at St. John's Hospital in Tulsa, Okla. Dr. Ritchie brings his wife Diane and their two-month old daughter, Mandy.

Harvey To Head Murray Grange

Murray — The Board of Murray Grange, No. 24, met at Murray School to elect officers. Named were: Master, Don Harvey; Overseer, Jerry Heim; Lecturer, Donnie Harvey; steward, Bob Schlichtemeier; assistant steward, Marion Wiles; lady assistant steward, Marie Wiles; chaplain, Elma Stoll; treasurer, Cathlene Hobscheidt; secretary, Susan Rice; gatekeeper, Bert Wortham; Pomona, Nell Sack; Ceres, Mildred Stoll; Flora, Lavera Schlichtemeier.

86% Of Teaching Grads Placed

Chadron — A total of 86% of the 1971 Chadron State College graduates who sought teaching jobs found them, Jacque Schmidt, director of placement at the college, said. He said the rate of placement is believed one of the highest in percentage of any teacher training institution in the nation.

Missouri River Inflows High

Omaha — The six large Missouri River main stem reservoirs this year experienced the greatest inflows since initial fill of the reservoir system in 1967. Current estimates place the 1971 inflows at 130% of the long term average. The reservoirs stored eight million acre-feet of water during the early spring and summer high runoff periods, limiting releases at that time to amounts required for project purposes including maintenance of storage reserves for additional flows. The impounded flood flows reduced downstream stages on the Missouri River as much as nine feet.

Sandhills Cattle Group Gets Manager

Kenneth O'Hare, President of the Sandhills Cattle Association, announced the appointment of R. J. Lovejoy, of Valentine, as the new manager of the Sandhills Cattle Association. Lovejoy, 29, has been assistant manager of the Association for the past 1½ years.

Officers To Be Installed

Seward — The Seward County Home Extension Club Council will install the newly elected council officers at the Home Achievement Day to be held at the Civic Center in Seward Wednesday, Oct. 6 at 7:30 p.m. Homemakers are invited to hear a panel of ladies from Lincoln present a program entitled Racial and Religious Prejudices of Today.

Minatare Company Sold

Minatare (P) — W. F. "Bill" Smith has announced the Colossal Cattle Company, a new Angus breeding firm, has acquired the total assets — reported at about $25 million — of Shalco Land and Cattle Company headquartered in Minatare.

Smith, of Minatare and the former president and directing partner of Shalco, is the president of the corporation. He said also involved in the transactions are a 40,000-head feedlot, headquarters offices and sale and support facilities at Minatare and complete breeding, grazing and sale facilities at Sugar Loaf Farm near Staunton, Va. Both included a total of 50,000 acres in Nebraska, Texas and Virginia.

Omaha Youth Killed In Bar

Omaha (P) — A man was killed and three other persons were wounded early Sunday during a shooting incident at the Workmens Club in South Omaha.

Police said 19-year-old Henry Bussby was dead on arrival at the Douglas County Hospital. Officers said he suffered a bullet wound in the head.

Taken to Veterans Hospital with a bullet wound in the head was Staff Sgt. Carl Tucker, 23, of Bellevue. He was listed in serious condition.

Attendants at the Offutt Air Force Base hospital said 19-year-old Airman 1C Ronnie Jetton of Offutt was in good condition with a wound in the neck.

At St. Joseph Hospital, it was reported that 20-year-old Albert Hodge Jr. was in good condition with a bullet wound in the right thigh.

Officers said Stanifer Adams, whom they described as manager of the club, told them Bussby and Tucker had been involved in a fight in the lounge. There was a large crowd, he said, and he heard several shots.

Officers said Hodge told them he was struck by a stray bullet. They said Jetton told them he was shot as he tried to assist Tucker in the fight.

Safety Week Begins With Bicycle Race

Bicycle Safety Week began Sunday afternoon at the East Campus tractor testing station with a "celebrity" bicycle race.

Despite jumping to an early lead on the strength of a head start, Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf finished third behind Lincoln Journal reporter Dick Haws and KLMS disc jockey Ron J. Jones.

The races around the 400-foot concrete oval began with a one-mile race for youth under 12 and graduated to a 10-mile race for college men.

Bicycle Safety Week began after City Council members Helen Boosalis and Bob Sikyta talked with Mayor Schwartzkopf about the "surge of bikes on Lincoln streets," Mrs. Boosalis said.

"Bob (Sikyta) and I were scared to death — afraid something would happen," she said. Committees were formed not only for the bike riders in Lincoln, but also to inform motorists of the increased bicycle usage, she said.

Bicycle Week will continue with registration and inspection at Lincoln High on Monday and at Lincoln East on Tuesday, between 2:30 and 5 p.m. On Wednesday, registration and inspection will be held north of the Student Union on the NU campus.

A bicycle clinic, featuring safety and maintenance information, such as tire changing, is scheduled for Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the old University High auditorium.

Saturday at 9 a.m., an all-day cross-country trip to Roca will begin at the south side of the State Capitol. Road races around Pioneer Park are planned for Sunday, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

3,000-Pound Iron Staircase Found Stolen

Omaha (UPI) — Doyle Beeber would like to know what happened to a certain 3,000-pound, 24-foot-long, cast-iron spiral staircase.

Beeber, terminal manager for the Ideal Truck Line here, said the staircase was discovered missing last weekend from the Construction site of the company's new Terminal Building.

Beeber said after personally checking around the neighborhood for witnesses and finding none, he reported the loss to police.

What is puzzling Beeber is just how the staircase could have disappeared unnoticed. He said it would have taken hours to dismantle it, and to take it in one piece would require a crane and a large truck.

Mead Boy Killed When Hit By Car

Mead (P) — A little boy was killed Sunday afternoon when he was struck by a car in Mead. Authorities said the boy's name was being withheld pending notification of some members of his family.

It was reported the boy was struck by a car when he walked into a street.

The death raised Nebraska's 1971 traffic fatality toll to 338, compared with 313 at this time last year.

Don't Put Weed Sprayer Away As There Is Still Time For Control

Don't put away the weed sprayer yet, there's still time to control some biennial and perennial weeds. Even though frost has occurred in some parts of the state, many kinds of these weeds survive and begin to grow again when warmer temperatures come along.

Perennials like leafy spurge, flood man's thistle and bindweed can very effectively be controlled with fall spraying. Biennials such as musk thistle can also be controlled now — even to the point that they may not have to be sprayed next spring. Spraying with 2,4-D should be done from now until early November. Choose a day when temperatures reach 60 degrees or above for best results. However, spraying can be effective at temperatures as low as 40 degrees with increased dosage.

Remember, a single musk thistle plant will produce 10,000 seeds that can reseed three acres nearby and supply seed on windy days for distant areas.

Most herbicides that are applied to the foliage this fall are translocated to points of active weed growth where they will be able to kill the plants. In cases where the weed is simply injured, it is taken into the winter freezing and thawing processes in poor condition and, subsequently, will soon die.

In addition to controlling the weeds, fall spraying has other advantages. This particular time is a so-called off-time for sprayers, which can mean the job can be accomplished much sooner. Also, when spraying is done now the chance of herbicide drift to susceptible plants is greatly reduced.

The fall season also presents an opportunity for farmers to take an annual weed survey. By determining locations of annual weed infestations, he can start planning a weed control program for next year.

You can almost be certain that you will have to combat weeds every year. But you can certainly control them if you use the right weed control program — whether it be in the spring or in the fall.

Foundation Names Mrs. M. Hasebrook

Washington, D.C. — John H. Perry, Jr., president of the National Dividend Foundation, announced the appointment of Mrs. Margaret E. Hasebrook of West Point, Nebraska, to the executive committee of the Foundation as a communications consultant.

Mrs. Hasebrook, past international president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the world's largest women's service organization with a membership of 11 million, will be communications consultant for the Foundation.

The National Dividend Foundation is the educational

Perry, which proposes that every American voter shall share equally in the corporate income taxes paid into the federal treasury annually by American free enterprise.

The National Dividend Plan proposes a ceiling of 50% on federal corporate income taxes and elimination of the double taxation on corporate dividends.

Further, he said, the National Dividend Plan would return to each voter a proportionate share of all federal corporate income taxes, thus making each voter a partner in free enterprise and a beneficiary of that system.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

An interesting observation is made in a quotation taken by Editorial Research Reports from "The Liberated Woman and Other Americans," a book by Midge Deeter. It quotes as follows:

"It seems nowadays more acceptable to characterize oneself as the victim of a monstrosity, or even as a monster oneself, than as simply human. Apart from its terrifying arrogance, this attitude leaves us as a people gasping every five years for an understanding of what has happened since the last set of formulas captured our collective mind, and, in our breathlessness, empty and waiting for the next set to replace it . . . 'Between the desire and the spasm,' T. S. Eliot said, 'falls the shadow.' Between the spasm and the 'poem' lurks an even more threatening possibility: that both desire and spasm will become negligible, mere material for the arbitrary manipulations of some not very gifted or not very honest observer of our common existence."

We would not bet any money on it, but we think this means that we are losing our individuality. In a desperate attempt to explain our failures, we search for scapegoats and thereby become fair game for exploitation.

If we are not masters of ourselves, then we are mastered by someone or something else. Thus, the logical conclusion that we are open to wholesale manipulation by some clever person with the sense to see this and the ability to do something about it.

All of which says, then, that if we want to maintain our freedom and independence, we should begin to act as plain human beings. This suggests a kind of balance that we often see lacking on the scene today.

For instance, we get to thinking now and then that the moral standards of the nation are going to pot. We see rising divorce rate, the growing use of drugs, a continuing climb in the crime rate and we conclude all human values have been destroyed.

A balanced person recognizes that there are a lot of moral problems for mankind but he knows that this has always been the case and that there are plenty of people still living by the same standards that this nation has followed for generations.

Obviously, the people Midge Deeter talks about are pushing themselves into an unbearable state of mind while the alternative is far more pleasant and constructive. To look at matters with a balanced eye and mind is to enjoy at least a minimum degree of optimism and to live with hope for the future.

It means that the new generation is not really out to destroy the world, even though a few of its members may be so dedicated. And we do the coming generation a disservice by continually bad-mouthing it because of its rebel minority.

This kind of criticism tends to give to that younger generation the victim syndrome of which Midge Deeter spoke. If youth attributes its difficulties and problems to insensitive adult population, it will not look inward at its own liabilities.

It seems logical, certainly, that we should stop finding an excuse for everything and take a good look at ourselves. If we have failed to achieve the degree of success that we consider to be our goal, maybe we have no one to blame really but ourselves. Certainly, it is true that there are times, at least, when we are our own worst enemy.

On the other hand, we should not be unduly alarmed at our failures along the way. As Midge Deeter said, we are "simply human" and that means we are not all perfect.

There is a lot we do not know and there are a multitude of things that stand between where we are in life and where we want to be. Being human, there are going to be some obstacles to overcome that are simply beyond our immediate capacity.

The important thing is to maintain our own individuality and to realize that we are the masters of our own destiny. We must exist, in other words, in a state of reality, not an imaginary world where responsibility is always placed beyond our doorstep.

HOYT GIMLIN

Argument Lingers Over Heredity Of Intelligence

WASHINGTON

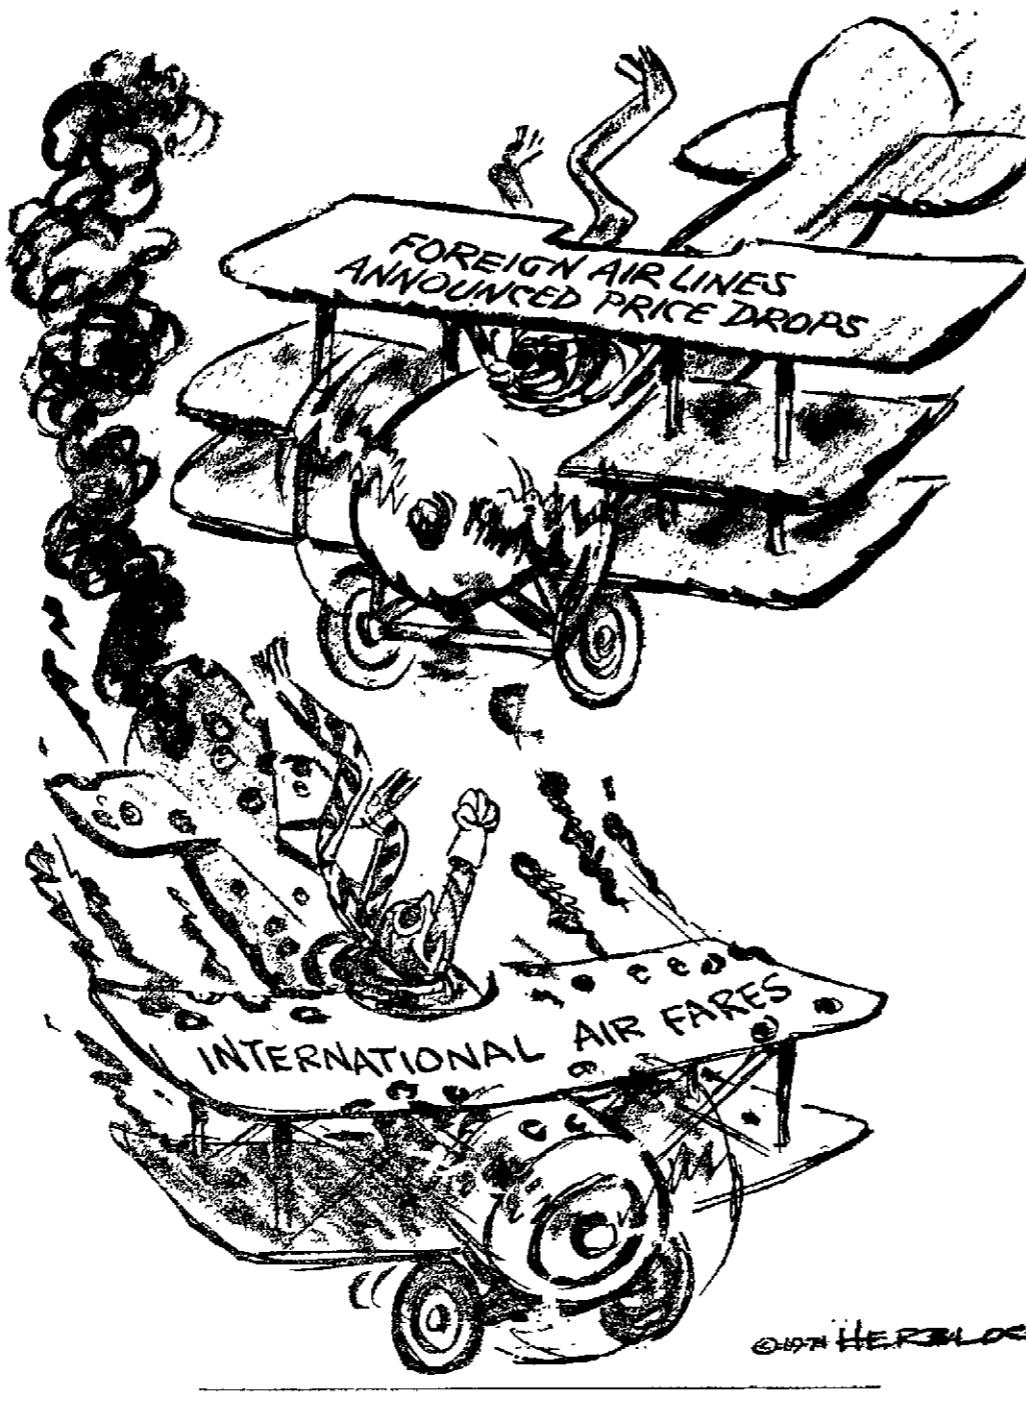

An old argument is heating up again over whether intelligence is the product of nature or nurture. It is by no means merely an academic exercise, as Berkeley psychology professor Arthur R. Jensen found out a couple of years ago. He was flooded with hate mail, made the verbal target of S.D.S. street rallies and became a campus pariah for suggesting in print that blacks lag behind whites not just in measurable I.Q. but in inherited intelligence.

Jensen concluded, as have a number of other experts, that among the general population, the genetic factor accounts for about 80 per cent in determining intelligence and only about 20 per cent is left to everything else — the social, cultural, physical environment, plus illness and prenatal conditions. In I.Q. testing, white Americans tend to score about 15 per cent higher than blacks. Assuming that these two sets of figures are accepted as valid, is the 15 per cent difference accounted for entirely from non-hereditary factors? Many psychologists say yes — that the tests have a built-in cultural bias.

By suggesting otherwise, Jensen laid the basis for an attack on the value of compensatory education for ghetto children. Unwittingly, perhaps, he moved the issue from the groves of academe into the world of politics. His arguments were used extensively by the opponents of integration in a Virginia school lawsuit.

Yet the matter is worthy of serious study and debate in an atmosphere that does not subject the researcher to intimidation if his findings happen to be unpopular. Man has still yet to resolve such basic questions as: What precisely is intelligence? How is it developed? And how best can it be used?

'Curse You, Lufthansa!'

'Raw Pressure' Used?

Recently Gordon Rule, a Navy claims control official, refused to approve the Navy's award of $71.5 million to Avondale Corp., a Louisiana shipbuilder and defense contractor, in a contract dispute.

The reason, said Rule, was that four of the most powerful members of Congress had used "raw political pressure" in face to face meetings with and dozens of telephone calls to Defense Department officials to win a favorable settlement for Avondale, described as the largest single employer in Louisiana.

Those named by Rule were Rep. Hale Boggs, the House majority leader, Rep. Edward Hebert, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, Sen. Allen J. Ellender, president pro tem of the Senate and chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee and Sen. Russell Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. All are Democrats and all are from Louisiana.

Testifying at a Senate-House economic subcommittee hearing, Rule spoke of the involvement of the members of Congress, concluding: "I'm not saying such practices are criminal in nature or violate any law. I'm just saying it's dead wrong and constitutes raw pressure."

That is a pretty powerful congressional line-up Rule was talking about and he would be entirely justified in bringing the charge if the congressmen had attempted to influence the size of the claim. Suspicions always arise regarding the use of influence—especially somebody else's influence.

Amnesty Pledged

Like any good politician, Sen. George McGovern will pick his audience to make a major declaration. It was at Long Beach State College some two weeks ago that McGovern, who has talked of it before, first made a pledge that if elected President, he would declare amnesty for young Americans who evaded the draft during the Vietnam conflict.

When he repeated that pledge at the University of Nebraska's Lincoln campus last Friday, he was greeted by a standing ovation by an overflow crowd of anti-war students.

Had McGovern made the amnesty pledge at, say, an American Legion convention, he would have probably been carried out of the hall on a door.

But crowd-pleasing aside, no one can conclude that Rule's charge, if taken, might prove conclusively either misconduct on the part of the congressmen or that Rule was way off base. As it appears now, however, there is nothing wrong with the use of influence as described by Proxmire. And yet we admire Rule for having the courage to stand up to the big guys.

We wonder how many times an individual, corporation, trade association or governmental subdivision in Nebraska has asked this state's congressional delegation to bring whatever pressure it has to bear on a federal agency to speed action. It happens often enough to know that the Louisiana delegation does not stand alone.

A closer look at Rule's charge, if taken, might prove conclusively either misconduct on the part of the congressmen or that Rule was way off base. As it appears now, however, there is nothing wrong with the use of influence as described by Proxmire. And yet we admire Rule for having the courage to stand up to the big guys.

ANTHONY LEWIS

Supreme Court Has Held The People's Faith; Nixon's Two Choices Need Careful Thought

LONDON — When he set out to reorganize the Supreme Court in 1937, Franklin Roosevelt had just won the most one-sided election victory in modern American history. The court seemed a feeble antagonist: its invalidation of New Deal economic measures, at a time of disastrous depression, had brought upon it both popular criticism and the scorn of legal scholars.

But we know what happened. Opinion rallied to the Supreme Court. An otherwise pliant Congress balked at the President's court plan. In that defeat, Roosevelt suffered a political wound from which he never entirely recovered.

There must have been many factors in the outcome. The plan itself, to add extra judges because the old gentlemen on the court were supposedly overworked, was tricky and unconvincing. But one reason for the result was undoubtedly a public attachment to the institution of the Supreme Court — a faith whose depth the President and his advisers had not imagined.

What is it about this strange institution that has kept a hold on popular belief through all the changes in American life?

For appointed judges with life tenure to decide fundamental political questions hardly fits standard democratic theory. Nor have particular results always been pleasing. From the case of Dred Scott to that of Ernesto Miranda, the court has repeatedly outraged large sections of opinion.

The public must have sensed an ultimate safety in the Supreme Court despite the mistakes and irritations. A man may resent the judges' protection of some interest group today and still recognize that, another time, the institution could protect his interest from the consequences of majority rule.

The danger has always been that, in relying on judges to save them, Americans would weaken the political process.

That was what so concerned Justice Felix Frankfurter. He thought the court should give elected branches of government the widest power. He rejected the certainties that Justice Hugo Black found in the Constitution, among other reasons because he thought legislators were as entitled as judges to apply its clauses to contemporary problems.

Now those two great exponents of conflicting judicial philosophies are both gone, and we can see that in a sense history has passed them by.

What aroused Felix Frankfurter's concern originally, and so many others, was the invoking of the Constitution to veto social and economic measures. But that day is over. No conceivable Supreme Court is going to tell Congress that it may not reform American medical care or the president that he may not change the dollars-andlements. If the market were truly competitive in the big industries, they suggest, that theory might hold more water.

But if the riches of our society were better (that means more equitably) distributed, their wage settlements might not seem high at all to those who now labor for less.

I have my own theory about the relative merit of salaries. Anyone who works at a job I would not want to perform ought to receive more than I do.

So I do not begrudge the New York sanitation worker his large wage settlements. I wouldn't do his job for twice the price.

And, on the other hand, the guy who isn't sweating on the streets or in the factories, not risking life or limb at some dangerous task, not performing work of drudgery in which the only rewards are monetary, not on his feet eight or nine or ten hours a day may be the one who is overpriced.

Why, look, you hear some people say, the garbage collectors in New York City make more than I do. Well, maybe they should.

Leftovers from labor's convention:

—Terry Carpenter: "Politics is a dirty, double-crossing business . . . I guess that's why I like it."

—Henry Jackson, responding to suggestions that he is a conservative despite his liberal voting record on domestic legislation: "Those are the same people who say Senator Fulbright is a great liberal, although he has voted against civil rights, labor and d welfare."

—And, finally, one speaker who shall remain unidentified who in urging labor to provide its favored candidates with as much or more support in 1972, excepted that, but it is doubtful.

Workers are weary of being blamed for higher prices, for starting the inflationary spiral through large wage settlement.

Don Walton

Trickle-Down Theory

referred to it in his address to the delegates.

Here's part of what Peterson said:

"According to knowledgeable economists, including William Shepherd at the University of Michigan, between 35% and 45% of market activity in the United States takes place under conditions of substantial monopoly power."

"Prices in such industries range 10% to 30% higher than they would under competitive conditions."

"A basic proposition in economics is that monopoly power in an industry leads to higher prices, reduced output, more unemployment and a slower rate of technological progress."

As defined by Terry Carpenter, the trickle-down theory rests on the assumption that if you favor big business enough to create more millionaires, they'll hire more chauffeurs.

The President, it would seem, has still failed to confront the unhappy reality that monopoly control, achieved through corporate merger, has replaced competition in so many facets of the American economy that the old free enterprise market factors no longer apply.

Fred Harris talked about that when he announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination the other day. He urged that General Motors be broken up into a number of smaller (comparatively speaking) corporations in an effort to restore some competition to a major segment of the economy.

Wally Peterson talked about it to the union leaders in North Platte, and Don Ferguson also testified from labor's convention:

JACK ANDERSON

Committee Counsel Leaks Patents Bill

WASHINGTON — While a Senate subcommittee considers a multi-billion-dollar anti-trust loophole on patents, the subcommittee's trusted chief counsel has been slipping the patent lobby restricted data from committee files.

The $33,000-a-year chief counsel, Tom Brennan, has, without the knowledge of the subcommittee's chairman or members, provided the lobby with copies of a staff version of the bill creating the patent loophole.

The bill is still under consideration by the committee. Yet Brennan has brazenly assured the American Patent Law Association that it will be out in time for him to brief the group on it at its October 21 meeting.

The bill is sponsored by Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., and contains amendments by Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., the ranking committee Republican. It has undergone vast transformations since its introduction and has been opposed wholly or in part by antitrust lawyers in the Justice Department, the Federal Trade Commission and Ralph Nader.

Brennan, to make sure that the national patent lobby also got word of what was going on in the inner sanctum of his subcommittee, sent copies of his marked-up bill to at least four other top patent lobby groups.

When we reached him at his Capitol Hill office, Brennan rejected our suggestions that there might be something wrong with sending material, which he properly sent to staffs of committee members, to the patent lobby, but not to the public. "That's a red herring," he huffed. Brennan said his assurance that the bill would be passed in time for his speech was only an "estimate." And he denied that when he leaves his 11-year post with the subcommittee shortly, it will be to practice patent law.

Gormley lengthily defended both the bill and his dealings with Brennan.

"I wouldn't be caught dead with something I'm not supposed to have," he said of the committee documents. Brennan had sent them out only for his and other patent lawyers' comments, he insisted.

The packet contained a staff version of the bill which, Gormley said, "was made available to me by Tom Brennan."

Gormley's note then surprised us.

Survey: Animosities Toward Whites Hardening

By LOUIS HARRIS

While the stereotypes that whites carry in their minds about black people are gradually breaking down, substantial minorities of white Americans still cling to such attitudes. At the same time blacks in this country are developing for their own part a set of hardening animosities toward whites. This communication gap between the races is at the root of many of today's racial tensions.

The number of blacks in the United States who agree with the statement, "whites are really sorry slavery for blacks was abolished," has risen from 63% to 70% in the past year. A clear majority of blacks now believe that whites are less honest than blacks, physically weaker and possessed of a "mean and selfish streak."

By contrast, against a longer time-frame, the number of whites who hold stereotypes about blacks is gradually declining. For example, the number of whites who feel that "blacks have lower morals than whites" has decreased from 55% to 40% over the past eight years; the number who say outright that blacks are "inferior" has dropped from 31% to 22%.

As reported previously in the Harris Survey, black confidence in white-dominated institutions in our society has reached a new low, and the number of blacks willing to adopt a more militant stance to achieve racial equality has risen in the past year. Blacks feel that for the most part whites are not willing to initiate moves toward racial equality, but will do so only when forced by black pressure.

Recently, a cross section of 1,200 black households was again asked: "Now let me ask

LOUIS HARRIS

Root Of Tensions

you some questions about whites as people. I'd like to know how you feel personally. Do you personally tend to agree or disagree with these statements?"

BLACK PERCEPTION OF WHITES

Agree
1971 1963

|---|-----|-----|
| Whites feel blacks are inferior | 81% | 81% |
| Whites give blacks a break only when forced to | 79% | 77% |
| Whites men secretly want black women | 52% | 44% |
| Whites are really sorry slavery for blacks was abolished | 76% | 74% |
| Whites have a mean and selfish streak in them | 68% | 65% |
| Whites are physically weaker than blacks | 65% | 55% |
| Whites are scared that blacks are better people than they are | 62% | 66% |
| Whites are less honest than blacks | 58% | 50% |
| White people need to have somebody else like blacks to | 58% | 50% |

Taken together, these results indicate without doubt that blacks are giving whites far less benefit of the doubt in race relations these days. This hardening of hostility coincides with growing disenchantment with their lot in society today, a condition probably exacerbated by such events as the recent killings at New York's Attica

White attitudes on a parallel set of stereotypes about blacks have softened some since the Harris Survey began asking about them in 1963. A cross section of 1,445 whites was asked

many of the same questions put to a comparable cross section eight years ago: "Now let me ask you some questions about blacks as people. Leaving aside the whole question of laws and civil rights, I'd like to know how you feel as an individual. Do you personally tend to agree or disagree with these statements?"

WHITE PERCEPTION OF BLACKS

Agree
1971 1963

| | | |
|--|-----|-----|
| Blacks are asking for more than they are ready | 55% | X |
| Blacks have less ambition than whites | 52% | 64% |
| Blacks laugh a lot | 48% | 68% |
| Blacks smell different | 48% | 60% |
| Blacks have lower morals than whites | 40% | 55% |
| Blacks want to live off the people | 39% | 41% |
| Blacks have less native intelligence | 37% | 39% |
| Blacks are more violent than whites | 36% | X |
| Blacks keep untidy homes | 35% | 46% |
| Blacks breed crime | 27% | 35% |
| Blacks care less for the family than whites | 22% | 31% |
| Blacks are inferior to white people | 22% | 31% |

In every case where there is a trend line, the number of whites who agreed with derogatory statements about blacks has declined since 1963. Nonetheless, substantial minorities of white people still cling to such stereotypes as "blacks have less ambition," "blacks laugh a lot," "smell different," "want to live off the handout," and "have less native intelligence."

One item on both lists points up the differing perceptions between the two races. An overwhelming 81% of all blacks say they believe that "most whites feel blacks are inferior." Only 21% of all whites admit to such prejudice personally.

Whites for the most part disclaim prejudice generally while documenting it in certain particulars. Blacks base their assessment less on what whites profess to be their views than on the actual injustices meted out by a society largely run by whites.

The Pampered Senior Citizens In The Pet Set

FATS BROWN

Sometimes it pays to be a member of the four-footed set. You live longer. To be sure, the number of years you exist may be shorter, but consider the fact that in the dog and cat world one year of life for a human means many more for four-footed friends.

POUF COLE

We've been investigating certain members of the pet set around town and found them to be exceedingly interesting personalities.

Take Fats, for example. Fats admits that there is nothing particularly glamorous about her name, but "what's in a name?" asks Fats. "A cat by any other name maybe wouldn't have had so much fun."

Fats, a Siamese, will be 140 years old on Monday, Oct. 4. Of course, in the world of humans she would be a young thing celebrating her 20th birthday.

Fats has all of the secrets of longevity and how to stay young, but, true to feminine form, she isn't passing any of them on. But then, Fats has a slight advantage — she is the adored and adoring pet of Dr. and Mrs. John A. Brown, and everyone knows that a doctor can take care of almost any ailment. We might add that Fats seems to consider Dr. Brown her "pet." She follows him around the house in the same way a dog follows his master.

In the case of Pouf, a French Poodle,

MISS TIFFANY MILLER

the adoration is centered upon his mistress, Mrs. Frank Cole.

Pouf isn't too far behind Fats when it comes to age, and one must forgive him for being slightly smug about the date of his birth. Pouf would be happy to tell you that he shares a birth date with Abraham Lincoln — Feb. 12.

On that date in 1972, Pouf will be 18 years old and that would make him 136 years of age if all ages were equal in the matter of humans and the animal kingdom. But alas, they are not.

Miss Tiffany isn't about to tell her age but we have it on good authority that she is 12 years old, and that her birthday is in February. Actually, age doesn't mean a thing to this pretty little poodle — but clothes do. Miss Tiffany has a wardrobe that would be the envy of all her poodle contemporaries — she has jeweled collars, beautiful hair ribbons, gorgeous sweaters — even boots, and she is the darling of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Miller.

Then we come to Tommy. Tommy has been the center of attention at the home of Mrs. Merna Gerleisen, her two sons and daughter for something like 14 years, and he has loved every minute of it. Well, who wouldn't enjoy the life he leads? He's petted and pampered even to the point of birthday parties, with a sure enough birthday cake and candles. That was on Sunday, Aug. 1, when he celebrated his 15th birthday.

Tommy had a traumatic experience one day a few months ago. The daughter of the house brought home a very young and small kitten. Needless to say, Tommy was more than a little disturbed even though he tolerated the intruder's presence. He kept a watchful eye on the kitten and had no qualms about lifting a paw if the little one came too close to Tommy's array of toys.

But all is well that ends well. At the moment, Tommy is completely ignoring the newcomer.

We think we should add that there are conflicting theories concerning how many human years go into one year for dogs and cats. Some books say that one year in the dog and cat world includes four of the human race. Another source claims that a six-months-old puppy is equal in years to a 10-year-old boy, and a third theorist comes up with the thought that a two-year-old dog is the equivalent in age to a 24-year-old man.

So it would seem that your pets can be as old — or as young — as they think they are.

Extension Meeting

New officers of the West O Extension Club were elected at the group's meeting which was held at the Lakeview United Methodist Church on Tuesday evening, Sept. 28.

Mrs. Max Tubbs was named president, and the other new officers include Mrs. Kenneth Neff, first vice-president, Mrs. Camille "

James Kitchen, second vice-president, and Mrs. Scott Schleicher, secretary.

The outgoing president is Mrs. John Breckner.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Jasper Skinner, Civil Defense director, who presented a film entitled "Lady Camille."

Abby: be prepared in case of fire

Baskets of orchid gladioli, pompons and statice appointed the chancel of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Bloomfield for the wedding of Miss Sherilyn K. Jessen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Jessen, all of Bloomfield, and Dwain H. Steinraus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Steinraus of Norfolk, which took place at 2 o'clock on Saturday, Sept. 18. The Rev. Dennis Carroll of Niobrara solemnized the ceremony.

The four attendants, including Miss Judy Jessen of Bloomfield, the sister of the bride and maid of honor, Mrs. Glenn Bauer of Norfolk, bridesmatron, and bridesmaids Miss Cheryl Henry of Omaha, and Miss Patricia Jessen of Bloomfield, wore alike A-line frocks of orchid. They carried colonial bouquets of lavender pompons and purple statice.

Miss Anne Barger served as junior bridesmaid, wearing a floor-length gown of orchid.

Larry Steinraus of Fairbury served as best man, and groomsmen and ushers were Larry Cranton, Ralph Jessen of Bloomfield, Duane Fulton of Creighton, Lonnie Young of Plainview and Gary Jessen of Omaha.

The bride appeared in a gown of white satin with a wedding band neckline. The fitted bodice of the gown featured an overlay of peau d'ange lace with pearl embroidery, which was repeated on the wrist-length fitted sleeves. The A-line skirt flowed in the back to an aisle wide train which was edged with scalloped lace. Her veil of silk illusion was held to her head by a bandeau of venice lace flowers accented with clusters of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of bridal pink roses, stephanotis and purple statice with white streamers.

Mr. Steinraus and his bride will reside at 2615 Woods Blvd., in Lincoln where the groom, a graduate of Northeast Technical College, is co-owner of Apex Heating and Air Conditioning. The bride attended Northeastern Nebraska College.

Meetings Are Planned

The members of Chapter BR, PEO will meet this evening at 7:15 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Alden Johnson, 4500 Sumner. The meeting will be highlighted by an auction.

Mrs. Richard Wood is chairman of the hostess committee.

The program will be a study of the constitution.

The marriage of Miss Judith Kathryn Krueger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas C. Krueger of Trumbull, to Randy Kohl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Kohl of Longmont, Colo., took place on Saturday evening, Sept. 25, at the St. Paul Lutheran Church in Trumbull. The Rev. Howard Mueller solemnized the 7 o'clock ceremony.

The attendants, including Mrs. James Treat who was her sister's matron of honor; and bridesmaid Miss Carol Kohl of Longmont, Colo., wore alike, floor-length frocks of chiffon in the antique gold shade. They carried nosegays of fall flowers.

Ronald McKenzie served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were Robert Miller, James Trent, and Chuck Miller of Norfolk.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of silk organza over taffeta. Peau d'ange lace formed an overlay on the Empire bodice, and was repeated to fashion the high, Victorian collar and the cuffs of the sheer Bishop sleeves. Miniat buttons accented the gown front, from the neckline to the hem of the A-line silhouette skirt. Back interest was given the gown by a train which extended to cotillion-length. A Camelot cap held in place her shoulder-length veil, and she carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses, chrysanthemums, and stephanotis.

Mr. Kohl and his bride will reside at 850 So. 34th St., in Lincoln.

The bride was graduated from Nettleton Business College and now is careering as a legal secretary with the law firm of Ginsburg, Rosenberg, Ginsburg, and Krivoshia.

Mr. Kohl, a graduate of the University of Nebraska, is now careering with the U.S. Postal Department.

DEAR READERS: Read the next paragraph because it may come in handy if you're ever on a quiz show:

A. — When was the Chicago fire?

A. — Oct. 9, 1871.

But that was 100 years ago. Shall we get more current? Last year more than half a million fires occurred in the United States. Over 12,500 lives were lost. Even more tragically, a large percentage of deaths were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone for just a few minutes.

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken were:

(1) Smoking (2) Electrical wiring (3) Heating and cooking equipment (4) Children playing with matches (5) Open flames and sparks (6) Flammable liquids (7) Suspicion of arson (8) Chimneys and flues (9) Lightning (10) Spontaneous ignition.

The total fire loss in 1970 was an estimated $2,800,000,000. (No misprint — that's two billion, eight hundred million dollars.)

Now for some tips that could save your life:

Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches too. And never leave matches or lighters within the reach of children.

Don't overload electrical outlets with too many appliances. Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. And replace a cord if it is frayed.

Never leave children alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes.

Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.

Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

Never use flammable liquids for dry cleaning indoors.

Never smoke in bed.

Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire.

NOW, in case of fire:

Most fires occur between midnight and 6 a.m. So always sleep with your bedroom door closed. If you suspect fire, feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape thru the window. But first alert the rest of the household.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket and sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to call them. Call from a neighbor's house.

If you live in an apartment building, use the stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it fails, you're trapped.

Once out, stay out. No treasure — not even the family pet, is worth risking a human life.

It took only a short time to read this column. Was it worth it? I hope so. God bless

Q. I lost eight pounds and it seems that a good part of it came off my bustline. Can you give me an exercise which will put two inches back on it quickly? I am really in a great hurry.

A. The only two ways to increase the bust measurements are to gain the weight back or to develop the chest muscles. The bust does usually reflect a loss of weight. If you will do the chest developing exercises faithfully, you probably will see some change in a month's time, but it may take several months to obtain the measurement you want.

I have given bust exercises recently in the column. If you or any of my readers would like to have my bust developing exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Q. I have a problem. I am 16 years old and I have a sister who is 18. I really am not bad looking. I have a nice figure and no awful features.

However, it just happens that my sister is really beautiful. I find myself lashing out at her and being mean and that is not really the way I am. I have thought it over and I think I am jealous, and I hate being that way. I really do not begrudge her beauty but it is a lot of competition for me. All she has to do is to look at a man and he falls flat on his face.

A. I think you must be quite a wonderful person and it is especially surprising to find such emotional maturity in one so young. It is perfectly natural for you to feel some envy over your sister's beauty. However, what you have is much more important than physical perfection. You evidently have emotional perfection.

Remember that many of the most famous and fascinating women of all time have not been beauties. They have had warmth and style and understanding and wit. The beautiful woman really has a handicap because she is apt to rely on that alone to become spoiled or to fail to develop her personality. I think your sister might well envy you. Be yourself and forget about your sister's good looks!

Q. My eyebrows are getting very thin. I used to have heavy ones but now in my late 40s they are thinning rapidly. What can I do?

A. People differ in such matters. The tendency is to gradual thinning of the brows. However, many persons keep a heavy brow until they leave this world. I suggest that you have a physical checkup because there are some systemic conditions which contribute to the thinning brow.

Q. Josephine — Help! I just got back from the beach and my figure disgraced me! My friend, Joan, almost always walked beside me and that was my trouble. She's BEAUTIFUL! She went through about four years of being a little chubby and this year she is gorgeous. Her measurements are about 35-24-35 inches. I mean it! She got a long stare from every male creature on that beach! Me? I was just part of the sand dunes. My measurements are 32-26-33 inches. I am as thin as a spider!

I mean I know that personality is sometimes more important, but a good figure never hurts. People say that I should be a model but we don't have money for lessons. So, I'm just like a stick that walks. Thanks for reading this lousy letter (full of spelling seven spades as a sacrifice, East doubled out of turn — and furthermore led the ace of trumps to confirm the soundness of his double!

Naturally, the tournament director was summoned. He ruled, among other things, that North-South could continue bidding in turn and that the ace of diamonds was a penalty card.

South thereupon ran to seven notrump. He recognized that seven diamonds was hopeless but thought he might be able to make seven notrump with the aid of an exposed card.

West led a spade. Declarer finessed the jack and then scored four heart tricks by trapping East's king. South had been hoping that East would show out of hearts and be forced to discard the ace of diamonds, but he had no such luck.

South now played a club to the king and cashed the A-K of spades. East continuing to follow suit as the ace of diamonds remained an exposed card.

Finally, South played a club to the ace, prepared to concede down four, but at this point it developed that East had no more clubs. East had no choice but to discard the ace of diamonds, so the outcome was that South made seven notrump!

mistakes). You've got to have some exercises to help me build up! I am even older than Joan. Hopefully.

A. I think your letter is most entertaining. It reflects an aliveness and sense of humor and if people think you should be a model I doubt that you are badly off at all. You must be pretty as well as shot with personality. Do you HAVE to go to the beach with Joan or do all of your friends have stare-attracting figures?

Anyway, go along and have a good time. Do not become selfconscious. I judge that you are worried about a small bust and that you would like to have a smaller waist. Right? You did not give me your ages but I imagine they are early to mid-teenage. A gain in weight will increase the size of your bust. If you are as thin as you say that is probably part of the trouble. However girls vary in the age at which they develop curves.

Catholic Educators Ask Federal Fund Halt In State Dispute; Prasch Blamed For 'Forcing' Issue

schools to provide some of those services.

They say, in fact, that the State Education Department said last spring that such programs could fall under the provisions of the act.

Then, later in the summer, the department reversed itself on the advice of Nebraska Attorney General Clarence Meyer, who has consistently held that when federal funds pass through the state treasury they fall under the restrictions of the Nebraska constitution, which prohibits use of public funds for any educational enterprise not completely controlled by a public body.

Campaign Launched

Catholic educators said the reversal capped six years of frustrated efforts to gain the comparable services under Title I that federal guidelines call for, and they launched a public campaign on the issue.

That campaign has led to a request to the U.S. Office of Education to halt all Title I funds to the state until the guidelines are met and for an investigation of the Nebraska situation.

Since it was Prasch who asked the State Education Department for a written clarification of its position this summer, Dawson has contended that the Lincoln school officials "forced" the decision which led to the reversal.

"We have no objection to distribution of the funds as the guidelines provide," said Prasch, who has remained largely silent during the current guidelines.

But in an interview Prasch said "individual decisions on Title I in the present controversy are controlled by the attorney general's opinion."

Supports Opinion

"Since I support the opinion philosophically," he said "I'm certainly not going to abrogate it until it changes."

"If it is changed constitutionally or in the courts," he said, the Lincoln schools would agree to serve Catholic children in their own schools, rather than in public schools as they are now.

(Catholic children currently must go to public schools for sessions funded under the act, and then return to their own buildings.)

In certain programs, federal funds bypass the state's treasury and thus do not fall under Nebraska's constitutional restrictions.

Hot lunch funds go directly to private schools, for example, and a nonprofit corporation of private school officials receives funds for library materials under Title II of the federal act.

Pass Through Treasury

But Title I funds go through the state treasury to "local educational agencies" and those agencies are the public schools.

A bill pending in the Nebraska Legislature would put a constitutional amendment on the 1972 ballot to permit the state to distribute federal monies according to federal guidelines.

The private schools are also supporting litigation, now before the State Supreme Court, which would permit public schools to lease classrooms in private schools, and use federal funds for remedial programs in the classrooms.

A 1971 law permitting public schools to loan textbooks to private school children is also being tested, and that suit is pending in Lancaster District Court.

U.S. Supreme Court decisions have generally drawn a line between direct aid to private schools and indirect aid which is designed primarily to benefit children, rather than schools.

Called the "child-benefit theory," it parallels the emphasis of Nebraska's private school leaders.

Benefit To The Child

"Title I is a benefit to the child alone," Father Dawson told The Star.

"It provides an educationally handicapped child with certain benefits, such as special reading, speech therapy, in some cases psychological services, even food and clothing."

Change Sought

Catholic leaders, however,

"It would take interesting mental maneuvers to make a church-state issue out of Title I."

But Executive Secretary John Lynch of the Nebraska State Education Association said the NSEA position is "public funds should be used for public education only."

"We didn't prevail in our opinion back in 1965 when ESEA passed," said Lynch, "but it still is our position."

Change Sought

Catholic leaders, however, believe such positions will weaken in the face of a possible halt in public funds, such as they are seeking from the U.S. Office of Education.

"I would see philosophical adamancy melting with the pending threat of losing public funds for all schools," said Paul O'Hara, executive director of the Nebraska Catholic Conference.

But Prasch said such a position would "simply sacrifice principle to expediency, which I'm not willing to do."

"The basic principle of separation of church and state is worth fighting for," he said.

I said: "Be sure to pack my dress shirt. This is a very classy cruise. Sorry you can't go."

She said: "Don't push me. I'm warning you."

Hey-ho, off to the Med. The Mediterranean. But if you want to toss around a little chatter, say you: "I'm going down to the Med."

A French ship. Gourmet kitchen. A swingy discotheque.

I said: "When you go to the drugstore, see if they've got any cleaner that takes out champagne stains."

She said: "This is the end. Don't bother to come home."

So to work whistling "Alouette."

News from darkest Africa. Conservation is not as easy as you think. In the great conservation parks, they are going to shoot a lot of conserved elephants.

Elephants need waterholes. So they dug a bunch of waterholes.

Now it seems when elephants don't have to run around looking for water, they have more time to make elephant love. Hence more little elephants.

When you have too many elephants, there isn't enough grass to support them.

An elephant eats several tons of grass a day. After he eats, his stomach rumbles. This is called borborygma. (No reason for this. I just wanted to see if I could remember how to spell it.)

I said: "Do you consider yourself a just plain housewife?"

She said: "Are you deliberately starting a fight

this morning?"

I said: "This is a survey. I said Women's Lib is against just plain housewives."

I said: "Listen to this from Elizabeth Taylor: Quote 'I intend to become just a plain housewife' Unquote."

She said: "When did she say that?"

I said: "The happy day just after she married Eddie Fisher. Did you pack that cologne I got for Christmas and never opened?"

She said: "Why on earth do you need cologne?"

I said: "This is a French bucket I'm sailing on. I hear all French dudes spray themselves with cologne. You don't want me to be a loser, do you?"

☆ ☆ ☆

The elephant when making love requires four days of preparation. That is a lot of openers, but it's a massive proposition.

The male elephant must rearrange the scenery. Dig a pit and a lot of other things.

You would think after four days of hard work, the elephant would be worn out. Would say, "Forget it!"

But no. Love conquers all.

Thus we have too many elephants in Africa.

We're all for conservation around here. "We haven't been out to dinner in weeks," she said. "Do you realize that?"

"I have to conserve myself for all those French goodies. I don't want to put on weight in advance," I said.

She said: "This is going to be one of those days, I can see that. I think I'll go out and get my hair done." The beauty parlor is the home of the fairy godmother.

I said: "Don't bother packing

News from darkest Africa. Conservation is not as easy as you think. In the great conservation parks, they are going to shoot a lot of conserved elephants.

Elephants need waterholes. So they dug a bunch of waterholes.

Now it seems when elephants don't have to run around looking for water, they have more time to make elephant love. Hence more little elephants.

When you have too many elephants, there isn't enough grass to support them.

An elephant eats several tons of grass a day. After he eats, his stomach rumbles. This is called borborygmus. (No reason for this. I just wanted to see if I could remember how to spell it.)

I said: "Do you consider yourself a just plain housewife?"

She said: "Are you deliberately starting a fight

this morning?"

I said: "This is a survey. I said Women's Lib is against just plain housewives."

I said: "Listen to this from Elizabeth Taylor: Quote 'I intend to become just a plain housewife' Unquote."

She said: "When did she say that?"

I said: "The happy day just after she married Eddie Fisher. Did you pack that cologne I got for Christmas and never opened?"

She said: "Why on earth do you need cologne?"

I said: "This is a French

The elephant when making love requires four days of preparation. That is a lot of openers, but it's a massive proposition.

The male elephant must rearrange the scenery. Dig a pit and a lot of other things.

You would think after four days of hard work, the elephant would be worn out. Would say, "Forget it!"

But no. Love conquers all.

Thus we have too many elephants in Africa.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

★ By SIDNEY OMARR ★

The Keynote to Cancer is to preserve and protect special interests, including family and property. Natives of this zodiacal sign harmonize with Taurus, Virgo, Pisces and Sagittarius. There is an air of mystery, Cancer, but caution must be exercised by Cancer persons in their dealings with Libra and Aries. Where money is concerned, Cancer is likely to benefit from the advice of Leo. Some famous persons born under Cancer include Dave Garroway, Jean Kerr and Orson Bean.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): What had been settled may appear to come apart at seams. Full moon position accents personality, marital tie, legal ventures. Whatever you do, consider feelings of family members. Remember birthdays, other anniversaries.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You may be invited to closed-circuit demonstration, performance. Keen to keep confidences. Telling everything now could be an error. Much occurs in clandestine manner. There are whispers rather than shouts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Some friends in transit could make unexpected requests. Check names, addresses. Don't take relatives for granted. Child who usually is obedient may display traces of rebelliousness. Be as versatile as possible.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): You finish. Project assignment is put aside. Your efforts are judged. Remain dispassionate, objective. Avoid any tendency to whine. Opportunity exists to expand emotional, professional horizon. Keep a sharp eye.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Too many changes, plans, trips could result in confusion. Bring order out of chaos. Refuse to panic. Those who are most threatened are merely testing. Stand tall. Independent attitude brings desired results.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Financial structure may make key to go with it. Success comes through unorthodox procedures. Avenues seldom explored may hold fruitful answers for you. Don't fear the unknown—or the unusual.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Diversity—try new plan on method. Obtain hint from Virgo message. Experiment—you are not wedded to past. Being progressive now could spell ultimate success. Realize this is a time of numerous plans.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Movements may be slightly restricted. You are apt to be concerned with hospital, other institutional facilities, be thorough. Patience is your ally. Give logic an equal chance with impulse.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Employment changes travel opportunity. You are better able to communicate. Member of opposite sex plays meaningful compliment. Friend may act in eccentric manner. Adopt attitude of live and let live.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Stress is on how to hurdle obstacles to ultimate goal. Some factors crop up which require some study. You are willing to contribute——but purpose seems obscured. Be persistent in demand for information.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Surprise calls, messages, visits—these are featured. Romantic aura is evident. Don't put too much stock in whispered sweet nothings. Means be realistic about promises. When you won't be home, PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Head your own counsel in money affairs. Others may be sincere—but where your finances are concerned, seek more than sincerity. You will receive needed support. Stand up for principles.

If TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you never are short of friends. This applies to personal as well as professional life. If when events appear to be going smoothly that you seek improvements or get urge to wander, you should not leave proven path. But if you would, and do, leave when bored strikes.

County Commissioner Believes Lancaster Manor Has Made 'Good Showing'

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

The direct operation of Lancaster Manor for the 1970-71 fiscal year resulted in a profit of $653 to be applied on remodeling and power plant operation, according to figures released by Lancaster County Commissioner William Grossman.

Grossman said he felt this is a "good showing" and had the county not had to incur additional costs for remodeling, "we would have had sufficient profit to cover a large portion of the power plant costs which appear to be $152,594."

The veteran commissioner said that "implications have been made that the county has spent unnecessary amounts on Lancaster Manor."

"I believe this to be wrong and appears to be an attempt to mislead the public," he said.

Total Expenditures Listed

He said total expenditures at Lancaster Manor for the 1970-71 fiscal year were $493,734 less the power plant expenditures of which the board has not yet determined the proper division between the different facilities located on the former St. Elizabeth Complex grounds.

Grossman noted that Lancaster Manor does not occupy

Direct operating costs at Lancaster Manor, according to Grossman, were $198,977 when the remodeling expenditures of $294,756 to be recovered by the county under the lease are deducted.

The County Treasurer received $199,630 in cash receipts for patient care, Grossman said.

Grossman said that Lancaster Manor does not occupy nor use the entire complex and the county received an annual rental of $1,140 for the residence located on the property, $43,740 from federal funds for the Day Care unit and $780 cash rental or credit for an apartment in the power plant building.

Negotiations Underway

Although the amounts are unknown now, Grossman said, rental for space used by the Lancaster Office for Mental Retardation (LOMR) is being negotiated, and if a portion of the complex is used for unwed mothers, the amount of rental would have to be determined.

Grossman said that the total purchase price for the complex which included the former hospital building, the nurses dormitory, land, a residence and power plant was $530,000 and total remodeling costs to date at $49,756.

This amount, he said, will be recovered for the county under the lease agreement with Colonial Homes, Inc. which operates the nursing facility for the county.

At the time of purchase, according to Grossman, it was estimated that costs would run about $3,000 to $3,500 per patient bed totaling about $1 million for the 350 beds.

He said this compared with new construction costs for a new facility of about $10,000 to $14,000 per bed or $4 million to $6 million.

"Present building costs would prevent us from constructing a 350-bed unit with space comparable to that at Lancaster Manor for a cost of $4 million," Grossman said.

Nursing Home Shortage Caused County To Act

Mounting problems in obtaining nursing home space for the indigent resulted in the county's decision to purchase the former St. Elizabeth Hospital complex and establish a county nursing home facility.

According to Commissioner William Grossman, because of the shortage in space the county board felt it had to do something before an emergency developed.

Due to the fact the county had 600 patients in nursing homes and the state would authorize only $300 per month at that time for payment to nursing homes for care of county patients, the greatest problem came from the private homes. Grossman said

"We were threatened that they would no longer take care of county patients at the prices approved by the state. In fact, we were told on more than one occasion by private homes to have the county patients out by a certain time and one operator threatened to set the county patients in the street," Grossman said.

He explained that if the county paid more than the maximum, it would receive no federal funds and would be forced to pay the entire amount.

"The county could not afford to pay $500 per patient for nursing care for some patients," Grossman said.

Grossman cited the following other problems resulting in the county's decision to purchase the former St. Elizabeth Complex and go in the nursing home business.

"The county had placed some 75 people in nursing homes outside the county because space was not available in Lincoln homes which would take county patients because they must be supported by private patients, and the loss on county patients incurred by the one home, according to the operator, was $43,000.

"No Help"

Grossman said that when the county received "no help" in obtaining the former Lincoln General Hospital, the St. Elizabeth facility became available.

"We had hopes of private industry taking this over," Grossman said, adding that he talked to the representative of a California firm about doing this.

"They wanted to make a deal with the county whereby the county would put around 200 county patients under his plan of remodeling in the St. Elizabeth building and pay his company $350 per patient per month," Grossman said.

He said that if the county had agreed to this it would have had to stand the entire cost of $70,000 per month or $840,000 per year "with no apparent way of recovering this cost."

Rex Earl of Colonial Homes, Inc. in Omaha, according to Grossman, presented a plan whereby the county would operate the home until it reached 150 patients.

"After this, it will go into a lease arrangement whereby the county will recover all its capital investments, including remodeling, architect fees and all costs connected therewith over a period of 20 years," Grossman said.

Soviet Luna 19 In Lunar Orbit

Moscow (AP) — The Soviet Union's newest moon probe, the unmanned Luna 19, entered a lunar orbit Sunday and was functioning as a moon satellite, Tass announced.

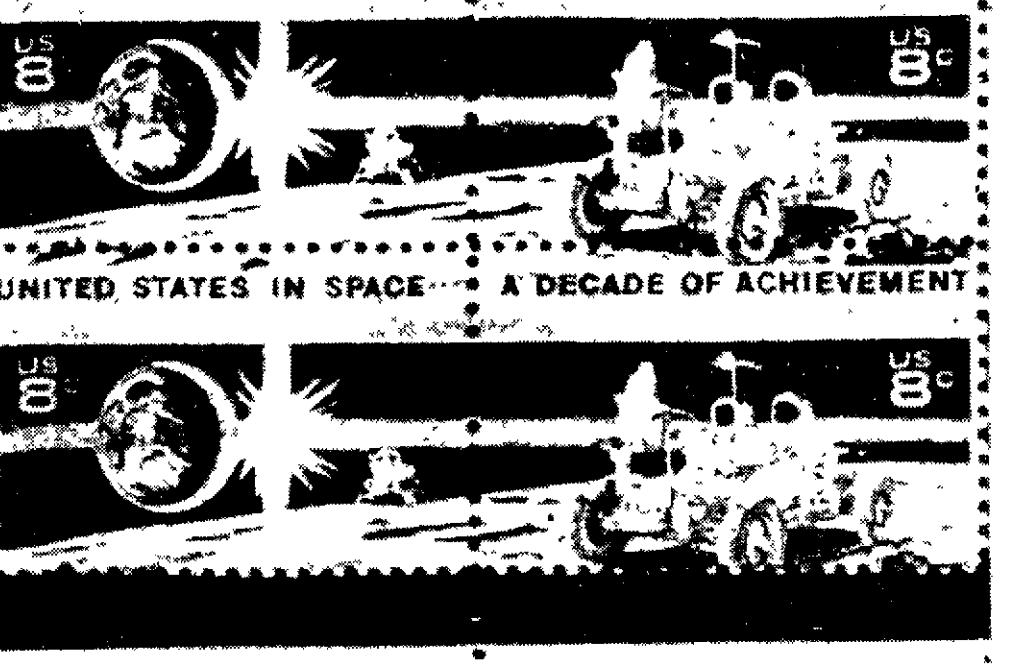

The official Soviet news agency gave no word about precise mission of Luna 19, launched Sept. 28 following three consecutive space failures by the Soviet Union.

But the wording of announcements about Luna 19 caused some western scientific observers to speculate it would not land on the moon.

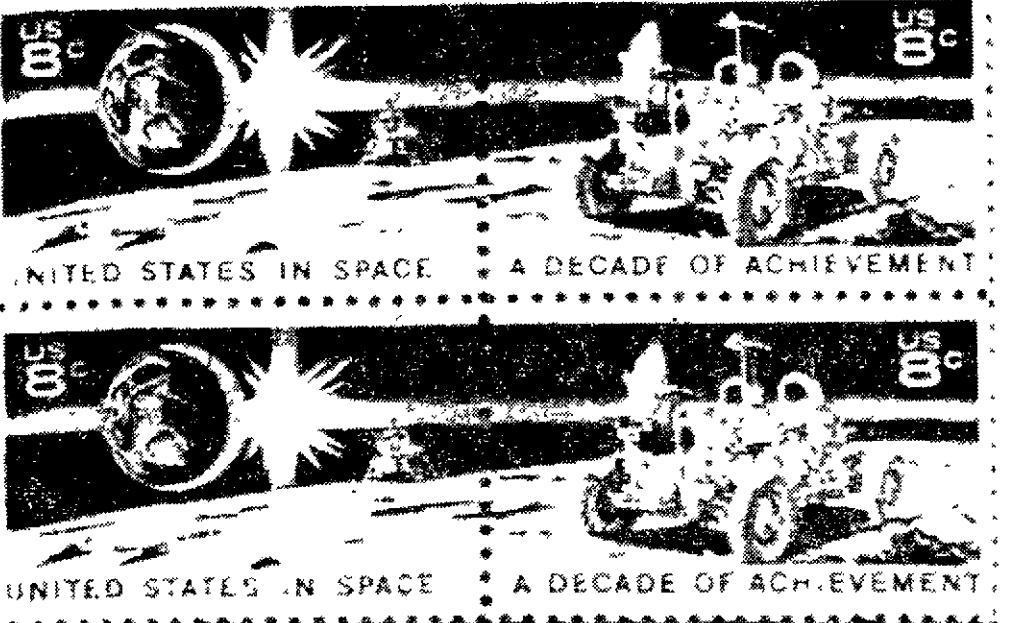

Tass said Luna 19 was put into near-moon orbit "to become an artificial satellite of the moon" and "to conduct scientific investigation of the moon and near-lunar space"

Observers did not rule out a possible landing attempt. "One was to leave open both possibilities," one specialist

Misprint May Be Worth $100,000

Oklahoma City (AP) — An El Reno, Okla., woman has discovered a printing error on a sheet of eight-cent stamps and one expert says the misprint may be worth $100,000 or more.

Leaders of both parties sent out telegrams over the weekend urging members to be present Monday for the vote on a resolution to veto the president's postponement of government workers' pay raises.

Leaders of the veto move in the House are Democratic members of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, mainly Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., and member Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif.

House Democratic leaders have pushed for the veto.

House Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma and Majority Leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana have urged all Democrats to vote for the veto resolution.

On the other side, House Republican Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan began working to line up members of his party against the veto two weeks ago through the Republican Caucus.

Future Uncertain

If the Democratic leaders can hold their members a veto is certain.

The move in the Senate to veto the postponement is expected to be made Monday by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, Md., who announced last week he will introduce an amendment to a pending defense procurement bill. Although a Republican, his constituency includes a good proportion of federal workers.

Crosby said Saturday he is convinced the stamps are a authentic government misprints.

Hugh Randall, former president of the state philatelic society, said the stamps could be worth $100,000 or more.

There may be more of the misprints around. Mrs. Allen, a stamp collector for 15 years, said the government prints stamps in sheets of 200, then cuts them in fourths for sale so there should be another 150 misprinted stamps among the 150 million space commemoratives the government is printing.

Mrs. Allen described the misprints as "the most spectacular, most beautiful sight I ever saw. It's what all stamp collectors look for, but most of us never find."

NU Gay Action Group Raps Board Of Regents

The University of Nebraska Gay Action Group, in a statement released Sunday, criticized the NU Board of Regents for a "total lack of concern for our dignity as human beings."

In their statement, the Gay Action Group claimed Moylan's suggestion of "General audiences" (GP) Parental Guidance suggested (R) Restricted—Persons under 17 not admitted without parent or adult guardian. (X) Persons under 17 not admitted.

"There is no law in the State of Nebraska," the statement said, "prohibiting homosexuality per se. The criminal behavior Moylan probably speaks of refers to specific sexual acts which are common in both heterosexual and homosexual relations."

The statement came following a Saturday morning attempt by regents James Moylan and Robert Prokop to cancel the "Time Out" conference on human sexuality planned for the Lincoln campus Tuesday through Friday.

In a motion, Moylan asked that the "administration take whatever steps are necessary to prohibit this conference on sexuality," claiming the best interests of NU dictate such action.

Prokop initially seconded the motion, but chose to abstain from voting.

The motion was turned down by the board, acting on the advice of their counsel, Flavel Wright, who said he believes the regents have no authority to interfere or prohibit the conference, referring to the rights of freedom of speech and assembly as guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution.

The four-day conference will feature speeches and talk sessions on topics such as sex education, human sexuality from ethnic points of view and sexual relationships.

Moylan had charged that the conference was "not balanced," that "it is advocating homosexuality" and as such, is

U.N. Delegates Agree U.S. Faces Hard Going On Plan

United Nations, N.Y. (UPI) — Delegates of many nationalities and convictions were agreed Sunday that the United States faces hard going with its proposal to keep Nationalist China in the United Nations while inviting Communist China to come in.

A few predicted outright that the Communist People's Republic of China would be in and the Nationalist Republic of China out before the end of the General Assembly's three-month 26th annual session, due Dec. 21.

But most of those speculating on the subject were saying that it was a tossup whether the United States would win, and that two or three votes one way or the other would decide the issue.

That was the situation as Secretary of State William P. Rogers prepared to go before the assembly with a general statement of U.S. policy, including a defense of the two-China scheme he announced in Washington on Aug. 2.

U.S. Support Action His announcement was that in the assembly the United States would "support action for seating the People's Republic of China" in the United Nations but "oppose any action to expel the Republic of China."

Rogers said that was "fully in accord with President Nixon's desire to normalize relations with the People's Republic of China" — dramatized by Nixon's July 15 announcement that he was going to Peking some time before next May.

The secretary of state will speak in the 130-nation assembly's general debate at 9:30 a.m. CDT Monday.

His speech of 30 to 40 minutes will dwell, among other things, on his initiative toward an Egyptian-Israeli agreement for reopening the Suez Canal and on Soviet-U.S. relations.

But he is expected to devote a large part of it to an explanation of the United States' gestures toward Peking and its simultaneous defense of the U.N. seat of Taipei.

With the cosponsorship of 16 other countries, the United States is pushing a resolution to leave Nationalist China seated in the assembly and seat Communist China both in the assembly and on the Security Council.

Main Hope

But its main hope of saving the Nationalists' assembly seat lies in another resolution, cosponsored with 19 other countries, that would designate the ouster of Nationalist China an "important question," requiring a two-thirds vote for a decision.

That proposal is directed against the so-called "Albanian resolution," sponsored by 21

Chess Champion Plays 16 Games Simultaneously

Aleks Liepnies, three-time Nebraska state Chess champion and 15 time Lincoln city champion, played 16 simultaneous chess games Sunday afternoon at the Nebraska Union.

He won 12, drew 3, and lost 1. The loss was to Kevin Mota, a Lincoln East high school student.

Neil Reeves and Wesley Schmidt, both University of Nebraska students, had draws.

Loren Schmidt, a Lincoln Northeast high school student and current high school chess champion, also had a draw.

2 Men Killed In Belfast Incidents

Belfast, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Two men died Sunday in separate bombing and shooting incidents, bringing the total killed in Northern Ireland's last two years of violence to 115.

A terrorist bomb damaged a government office at Lisburn, 10 miles from Belfast, shortly after midnight. A mutilated body found nearby was later identified by police as Terence McDermott 19. A British army spokesman said security forces believe McDermott was involved in planting the bomb.

The second victim was shot dead in one of several predawn exchanges of automatic gun fire, this time in the Roman Catholic Falls Road area. The army said it was not involved in the exchange that included the fatal shooting. There were no other reports of injuries.

About 12,000 British troops have been patrolling the province for the past two years, trying to keep the peace between rival Roman Catholic and Protestant communities.

An army spokesman reported Sunday that during September 266 arrests had been made in Northern Ireland, 57 small arms found and 415 pounds of explosives and a large quantity of ammunition uncovered.

Harraway Peps Washington

. . . REDSKINS TRIP COWBOYS, 20-16

By Associated Press

The Washington Redskins are for real.

The underdog 'Skins, stunning Dallas on Charley Harraway's 57-yard touchdown jaunt and a 50-yard Billy Kilmor-to-Roy Jefferson scoring strike, beat the Cowboys 20-16 Sunday to grab sole ownership of first place in the National Conference's East Division.

It was the first time since 1943 that Washington has won its first three regular-season games and the first time in seven tries it has beaten Dallas.

In Sunday's other National Football League games, Detroit outlasted Atlanta 41-38. Baltimore belted New England 23-3. Minnesota muffed Buffalo 19-0. Los Angeles beat Chicago 17-3. Green Bay edged Cincinnati 20-17. Kansas City dumped Denver 16-3. The New York Jets surprised Miami 14-10. The New York Giants held off St. Louis 21-20. Pittsburgh defeated San Diego 21-17. San Francisco shelled Philadelphia 31-3 and New Orleans and Houston played to a 13-13 tie.

The Oakland Raiders face the Browns in Cleveland in Monday night's nationally televised ABC, 8 p.m., CDT game.

"We had to make up for the Senators' coming to Texas. We had to make the folks back home proud of us," said Redskins Coach George Allen, referring to the shift of the Washington baseball team to Dallas-Fort Worth.

"We played our game and didn't make any mistakes," Allen said after the 'Skins rolled up 200 yards rushing against the Cowboys' Doomsday Defense to counter the 175 yards on passing that Dallas gained.

Harraway's gallop came on Washington's third offensive play and Kilmor's touchdown pass gave the Redskins a 11-9 halftime lead. Curt Knight's field goals of 25 and 32 yards closed their scoring while Mike Clark had three field goals and Calvin Hill plunged over from one yard out for Dallas.

"It's a simple game of knocking them out or getting knocked out," Cowboys Coach Tom Landry slurred, "and we got knocked out."

Greg Landry threw two passes, safety Mike Weger raced 52 yards with a fumble for a score and Ron Jessie tallied on a 97-yard kickoff return in the Lions' seesaw victory. Bob Berry tossed for three touchdowns, two to Ken Burrow, as the Falcons wound up with 295 aerial yards.

Tom Matte and rookie Don Nottingham barreled over for first-period touchdowns that sent the Colts on their way. Jim O'Brien added three field goals while his teammates held the Patriots to a Charlie Gogolak field goal.

The Vikings held the Bills to a meager 64 offensive yards, 56 of them on the ground, while Dave Osborn and Norm Sneed broke over for one-yard touchdowns.

The Bears, counting on more Kent Nix heroes when quarterback Jack Concannon was injured in the second period, came up empty while

Jabbar Injures Eye, Decision Set Monday

Milwaukee, Wis. (UPI) — The star center of the Milwaukee Bucks, Kareem Jabbar (Lew Alcindor), injured his eye in a game during the weekend in Seattle and a decision will be made Monday on when he can play next.

Jabbar was brought back here Sunday for observation at a local hospital. Spokesman for the Bucks said his eye lids appeared swollen but no eye damage was apparent.

Race Driver Killed

Sandusky, Ohio (UPI) — Nolan Johncock of Hastings, Mich., was killed Sunday when his car ran off the track and crashed through the retaining fence during the feature event of the Sandusky International Cavalcade auto races.

Bengals' Dyer Injured

Green Bay, Wis. (UPI) — Cincinnati Bengals' defensive back Ken Dyer suffered a broken neck Sunday in the first half of the National Football League game against the Green Bay Packers.

the Rams offered late-game fireworks — a 50-yard touchdown romp by Lance Rentzel on a reverse play.

Rookie John Brockington rumbled for 120 yards to lead the attack by the Packers, who got a decisive 14-yard field goal from Lou Michaels midway in the final quarter for their victory.

The Bengals lost star quarterback Virgil Carter with a shoulder separation and safety Ken Dyer with a spinal injury which, a team physician said, apparently paralyzed him from the neck down.

Aron Brown's 68-yard touchdown run with an interception and Jan Stenerud's three field goals gave the Chiefs their easy decision over the Broncos.

The Jets got a lucky bounce to beat Miami as they recovered their own punt on the Dolphins' 37-yard line after the ball brushed against a Miami player. New York scored the winning touchdown on George Nock's two-yard sweep with less than two minutes remaining.

The Giants erupted for three first-half touchdowns, one on Rocky Thompson's 93-yard kickoff return, then held off the Cards, who struck back on a pair of Pete Beathard-to-Mel Gray touchdown bombs covering 64 and 60 yards.

The Steelers turned a fumble and a bad pass by quarterback John Hadl into a pair of John Fuqua touchdowns in their slim win over the Chargers.

John Brodie ripped apart the Eagles' secondary with three touchdown passes, two to tight end Ted Kwalick covering three and 49 yards, in the 49ers easy victory.

Charley Johnson of the Oilers and Archie Manning of the Saints matched touchdown bombs but it was a 37-yard field goal with nine seconds to play by Charlie Derkee — released earlier this year by Houston — that lifted the Saints to a tie.

Harraway Peps Washington

REDSKINS TRIP COWBOYS, 20-16

By Associated Press
The Washington Redskins are for real.

The underdog 'Skins, stunning Dallas on Charley Harraway's 57-yard touchdown jaunt and a 50-yard Billy Kilmer-to-Roy Jefferson scoring strike, beat the Cowboys 20-16 Sunday to grab sole ownership of first place in the National Conference's East Division.

It was the first time since 1943 that Washington has won its first three regular-season games and the first time in seven tries it has beaten Dallas.

In Sunday's other National Football League games, Detroit outlasted Atlanta 41-38, Baltimore belted New England 23-3, Minnesota muffed Buffalo 19-0, Los Angeles beat Chicago 17-3, Green Bay edged Cincinnati 20-17, Kansas City dumped Denver 16-3, the New York Jets surprised Miami 14-10, the New York Giants held off St. Louis 21-20, Pittsburgh defeated San Diego 21-17, San Francisco shelled Philadelphia 31-3 and New Orleans and Houston played to a 13-13 tie.

The Oakland Raiders face the Browns in Cleveland in Monday night's nationally televised ABC, 8 p.m., CDT game.

"We had to make up for the Senators' coming to Texas. We had to make the folks back home proud of us," said Redskins Coach George Allen, referring to the shift of the Washington baseball team to Dallas-Fort Worth.

"We played our game and didn't make any mistakes," Allen said after the 'Skins rolled up 200 yards rushing against the Cowboys' Defense to counter the 175 yards on passing that Dallas gained.

Harraway's gallop came on Washington's third offensive play and Kilmer's touchdown pass gave the Redskins a 14-9 halftime lead. Curt Knight's field goals of 25 and 32 yards closed their scoring while Mike Clark had three field goals and Calvin Hill plunged over from one yard out for Dallas.

"It's a simple game of knocking them out or getting knocked out," Cowboys Coach Tom Landry sturgged, "and we got knocked out."

Greg Landry threw two passes, safety Mike Weger raced 52 yards with a fumble for a score and Ron Jessie tallied on a 97-yard kickoff return in the Lions' seesaw victory. Bob Berry tossed for three touchdowns, two to Ken Burrow, as the Falcons wound up with 295 aerial yards.

Tom Matte and rookie Don Nottingham barreled over for first-period touchdowns that sent the Colts on their way. Jim O'Brien added three field goals while his teammates held the Patriots to a Charlie Gogolak field goal.

The Vikings held the Bills to a meager 64 offensive yards, 56 of them on the ground, while Dave Osborn and Norm Snead broke over for one-yard touchdowns.

The Bears, counting on more Kent Nix heroes when quarterback Jack Concannon was injured in the second period, came up empty while

Jabbar Injures Eye, Decision Set Monday

Milwaukee, Wis. (UPI) — The star center of the Milwaukee Bucks, Kareem Jabbar (Lew Alcindor), injured his eye in a game during the weekend in Seattle and a decision will be made Monday on when he can play next.

Jabbar was brought back here Sunday for observation at a local hospital. Spokesman for the Bucks said his eye lids appeared swollen but no eye damage was apparent.

Race Driver Killed

Sandusky, Ohio (UPI) — Nolan Johncock of Hastings, Mich., was killed Sunday when his car ran off the track and crashed through the retaining fence during the feature event of the Sandusky International Cavalcade auto races.

Bengals' Dyer Injured

Green Bay, Wis. (UPI) — Cincinnati Bengals' defensive back Ken Dyer suffered a broken neck Sunday in the first half of the National Football League game against the Green Bay Packers.

the Rams offered late-game fireworks — a 50-yard touchdown romp by Lance Rentzel on a reverse play.

Rookie John Brockington rumbled for 120 yards to lead the attack by the Packers, who got a decisive 14-yard field goal from Lou Michaels midway in the final quarter for their victory.

The Bengals lost star quarterback Virgil Carter with a shoulder separation and safety Ken Dyer with a spinal injury which, a team physician said, apparently paralyzed him from the neck down.

Aaron Brown's 68-yard touchdown run with an interception and Jan Stenerud's three field goals gave the Chiefs their easy decision over the Broncos.

The Jets got a lucky bounce to beat Miami as they recovered their own punt on the Dolphins' 37-yard line after the ball brushed against a Miami player.

New York scored the winning touchdown on George Nock's two-yard sweep with three and 42 yards, in the 49ers' easy victory.

The Giants erupted for three first-half touchdowns, one on Rocky Thompson's 93-yard kickoff return, then held off the Cards, who struck back on a pair of Pete Beathard-to-Mel Gray touchdown bombs covering 64 and 60 yards.

The Steelers turned a fumble and a bad pass by quarterback John Hadl into a pair of John Fuqua touchdowns in their slim win over the Chargers.

John Brodie ripped apart the Eagles' secondary with three touchdown passes, two to tight end Ted Kwalick covering three and 42 yards, in the 49ers' easy victory.

Charley Johnson of the Oilers and Archie Manning of the Saints matched touchdown bombs but it was a 37-yard field goal with nine seconds to play by Charlie Derkee — released earlier this year by Houston — that lifted the Saints to a tie.

Watkins Glen, N.Y. (UPI) — Francois Cevert, a 27-year-old extrovert from France, passed teammate Jackie Stewart on the 13th lap Sunday and went on to win the United States Grand Prix for Formula 1 cars.

The curly-haired Cevert, in only his second year on the world circuit, finished about 40 seconds ahead of Jo Siffert of Switzerland. Ronnie Peterson of Sweden was third, Howden Ganley of New Zealand was fourth and Stewart fifth. Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland came in sixth despite an early pit stop that took him out of contention.

The race, ran in almost perfect weather after a dense fog that didn't clear until midday, drew a crowd estimated by police in excess of 100,000. They said it was a record for this event.

Cevert, son of a Parisian jeweler, collected $50,000 from the record $267,000 purse. Siffert was paid $20,000 and Peterson $12,000.

Cevert, who had started fifth on the grid, overhauled pole-sitter Stewart as they roared down the backstretch during their 13th circuit of the new 3.377-mile Watkins Glen Grand Prix circuit. He never was in danger of losing the lead, although Belgian Jackie Ickx kept his Ferrari in contention until forced into a late pit stop.

Stewart, who added two points to his total toward the world driving championship, already had clinched the Grand Prix title with six wins before coming to the Glen. Peterson had clinched second place.

"Folks up here don't want $5.80 for $2," said Bill Merchant, a cheerful, 52-year-old former poverty-program publicist who manages the branch. "They're accustomed to playing the numbers, and that means a windfall (8-1 for a single, 600-1 for a triple) if they hit."

In the OTB chain, behind the blue and orange plastic flowers, half a dozen horse players scanned the entry lists as they worked on another kind of harlem dream: Winning a substantial amount of money in a hurry. Seventy-five per cent of the shop's action is on daily doubles and exactas.

Class A Top 10 Said Prep Rater's Dream

By VIRGIL PARKER

'WHEN WILL ROOF CAVE IN' ASKED

It's never happened before. It may never happen again. The prep rater's dream. Everything is so logical.

The current ranking of the top ten Class A high school football teams in Nebraska falls in place with such ease it only leaves the question, "When will the roof cave in?"

Lincoln East, No. 1 all fall, continues to romp over each opponent. No argument as to which team deserves the top spot. Coach Lee Zentie's Spartans have now scored 175 points in four games while allowing the combined foes just one touchdown.

Then comes the automatically dictated order of the next six places.

Norfolk moves up to the runner-up spot on the basis of an unbeaten season, including a victory over Fremont.

That's Fremont's only loss, so they're No. 3.

The next four teams, like Fremont, have 3-1 records.

Lincoln Southeast, No. 4, lost to Bellevue topped sixth-ranked

Creighton Prep, which in turn handed No. 7 rated Omaha South its only loss.

The last three rungs on the ratings ladder belong to a trio of unbeaten teams. Their followers might be able to present an argument for a higher placing than some of the clubs with 3-1 marks, but the lack of ranking foes says "no," at least for the moment.

No. 8 Omaha Burke escaped with a three-point victory this past weekend over Omaha Benson, a team with an unimpressive record.

Beatrice, ninth-rated, had to come from behind to topple Class B Fairbury the past weekend. The other three teams the Orangemen have played have a combined record of 3-8.

Millard, which joins the top ten in the final spot with a 4-0 record, has yet to play a toughie. The four clubs Millard has beaten have a combined record of 5-11.

But hold on. Burke plays South later on, Beatrice meets East next Saturday night plus Fremont and Southeast later, while Millard has a chance to prove itself with future games against Fremont and Beatrice.

DAHLBERG CAPTURES PBA SPOT

Steve Dahlberg

Omaha's Steve Dahlberg captured one of the five berths in the pro division of the 1971 Lincoln PBA Open Bowling Tournament.

Dahlberg rolled a five-game total of 1,100 Sunday at Hollywood Bowl to qualify for the meet set for Hollywood Bowl Oct. 22.

Millard, which joins the top ten in the final spot with a 4-0 record, has yet to play a toughie. The four clubs Millard has beaten have a combined record of 5-11.

But hold on. Burke plays South later on, Beatrice meets East next Saturday night plus Fremont and Southeast later, while Millard has a chance to prove itself with future games against Fremont and Beatrice.

Action next week will be at Bowl-Mor Lanes.

Class A Top 10 Said Prep Rater's Dream

'WHEN WILL ROOF CAVE IN' ASKED

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

It's never happened before. It may never happen again. The prep rater's dream. Everything is so logical.

The current ranking of the top ten Class A high school football teams in Nebraska falls in place with such ease it only leaves the question, "When will the roof cave in?"

Lincoln East, No. 1 all fall, continues to romp over each opponent. No argument as to which team deserves the top spot. Coach Lee Zentz's Spartans have now scored 175 points in four games while allowing the combined foes just one touchdown.

Then comes the automatically dictated order of the next six places.

Norfolk moves up to the runner-up spot on the basis of an unbeaten season, including a victory over Fremont.

That's Fremont's only loss, so they're No. 3.

The next four teams, like Fremont, have 3-1 records. Lincoln Southeast, No. 4, lost to Fremont but beat No. 5 Bellevue.

Bellevue topped sixth-ranked Creighton Prep, which in turn handed No. 7 rated Omaha South its only loss.

The last three rungs on the ratings ladder belong to a trio of unbeaten teams. Their followers might be able to present an argument for a higher placing than some of the clubs with 3-1 marks, but the lack of ranking foes says "no," at least for the moment.

No. 8 Omaha Burke escaped with a three-point victory this past weekend over Omaha Benson, a team with an unimpressive record.

Beatrice, ninth-rated, had to come from behind to topple Class B Fairbury the past weekend. The other three teams the Orangemen have played have a combined record of 3-8.

Millard, which joins the top ten in the final spot with a 4-0 record, has yet to play a toughie. The four clubs Millard has beaten have a combined record of 5-11.

But hold on, Burke plays South later on, Beatrice meets East next Saturday night plus Fremont and Southeast later, while Millard has a chance to prove itself with future games against Fremont and Beatrice.

Bryant Not Happy With Alabama Tilt . . . TIDE RUNS SERIES OF PLAYS WITHOUT HUDDLE AGAINST OLE MISS

By Associated Press

Alabama, using a vicious and quick-striking ground attack, wasted little time in crushing arch-rival Mississippi, but Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant still wasn't satisfied.

Asked why Alabama began the game by running a series of plays without calling a huddle, Bryant said: "We wanted to line up and go without giving them time to make a bunch of signals, changes and stunts. We probably made a mistake not doing more of it."

Actually, Alabama ran two quick plays at the start of the game before Mississippi called time out to adjust to the speedup, and Alabama then reverted to huddling between plays.

It really made no difference, even if Bryant appeared a bit displeased, as the seventh-ranked Crimson Tide scored without much trouble and amassed 531 yards rushing in mauling Ole Miss 40-6 Saturday in a Southeastern Conference clash.

While Alabama was boasting its record to 4-0, the other members of The Associated Press' Top Ten, except for No. 10 Stanford, remained unbeaten and untied.

Top-rated Nebraska ran its winning streak to 23 games, including four this season, routing previously undefeated Utah State 42-6. Michigan, ranked second, rode to its third consecutive shutout and fourth victory of the season, battering Navy 46-0.

Texas, No. 3, whipped Oregon 35-7, for its third triumph.

Fourth ranked Notre Dame won its third in a row, holding off stubborn Michigan State 14-2. Auburn, rated fifth, also won its third straight, walloping Kentucky 38-6.

Colorado, No. 6, hiked its record to 4-0, trimming Kansas State 31-21 in a Big Eight Conference encounter.

Oklahoma, the No. 8 team, beat 17th ranked Southern California 33-20 for its third victory.

Ninth-rated Penn State also made its record 3-0, edging the Air Force Academy 16-14, while Stanford was upset by 19th rated Duke 9-3.

Among the second ten, Georgia, No. 11, walloped Mississippi State 35-7; 12th-ranked Tennessee downed Florida 20-13; 13th ranked Arizona State took Texas-El Paso 24-7; Ohio State, ranked 14th, pounded California 35-3; Washington, No. 15, ambushed Illinois 52-14; Louisiana State rated 16th, battered Rice 38-3; Arkansas, No. 18, beat Texas Christian for the 13th straight time 49-15, and North Carolina, ranked 20th subdued North Carolina State 27-7.

Alabama, avenging a 48-23 setback to Ole Miss last year, when the Tide gained only 27 yards on the ground, shredded the Mississippi defense with its bruising running attack this time before a record crowd of 72,871 at Birmingham, Ala.

Johnny Musso, who sets an Alabama record nearly every time he handles the ball, carried 22 times for 193 yards and scored once. The touchdown was the 31st of his career, tying an SEC record.

Leading the scoring for the NU team was Errol Berke meier with nine goals. The NU team travels to Seward Concordia for the next game Oct. 15.

NU Gals Drop NWU In Field Hockey Tilt

The University of Nebraska girls field hockey team turned back Nebraska Wesleyan, 13-0, at the NWU field Sunday afternoon.

Leading the scoring for the NU team was Errol Berke meier with nine goals. The NU team travels to Seward Concordia for the next game Oct. 15.

Car Race Postponed

Richmond, Va. (AP) — The Capital City 500 NASCAR stock car race, drenched by rain was postponed Sunday until Nov. 14.

Quarterback Jerry Tagge

paced Nebraska's attack, throwing TD passes of 14 yards to Bill Olds and 36 yards to Johnny Rodgers and scoring twice on runs of one and three yards against Utah State.

A disappointed but awed Utah State Coach Chuck Mills paraphrased Julius Caesar, saying: "We came, we saw, we were conquered."

Michigan slipped through Michigan State's defense for a pair of first-period touchdowns and Notre Dame made them stand up in a game in which Spartans' Coach Duffy Daugherty was highly critical of the officiating.

"This was the worst officiated game I have seen in all my years of coaching," fumed Daugherty.

Asked if he would make any formal complaints about the officiating, Daugherty replied: "No, but I'll criticize them publicly."

What drew Daugherty's wrath were two calls against the Spartans for offensive pass interference and another play in which he thought a Notre Dame player should have been called for roughing the kicker but wasn't.

The passing combination of Paul Sullivan to Terry Beasley led Auburn past Kentucky. Sullivan riddled the Wildcats' defense for 16 completions in 25 attempts for 253 yards and two touchdowns. One TD strike was a 59-yarder to Beasley, who caught a total of 194 yards. Beasley's touchdown was the 19th of his career, an SEC record.

Cliff Branch returned a punt 49 yards for a touchdown and grabbed a 20-yard pass for another score in Colorado's victory over Kansas State. "I still get excited whenever Branch takes the ball," said Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder. "But that's because I don't know whether he'll drop it or score a touchdown."

Oklahoma tossed only one pass against Southern California, but rolled up 516 yards rushing from its Wishbone-T offense. Greg Pruitt paced the Sooners unstoppable ground game with touchdown runs of 75, 38 and seven yards.

Little Alberto Vitiello turned from a possible goat to a hero in Penn State's triumph over the Air Force. After missing a third-period extra point which would have helped the Nittany Lions gain a tie, the 5-foot-7 junior college transfer overcame a 14-13 deficit with a 22-yard field goal with four minutes left.

Bonavena Gains Win Over Lewis

Buenos Aires (AP) — Argentine heavyweight Oscar Bonavena won a controversial victory Saturday night over Alvin "Blue" Lewis when the referee disqualified Lewis in the seventh round with five seconds to go in a scheduled 10-round bout.

Bonavena suffered a one-inch gash over his right eye and

Argentine referee Jo a qui in

Arvas ruled Lewis, of Detroit, had butted him.

Aid For Israeli Schools And Hospitals Boosted

The New York Times

Washington — The House has included $10,750,000 in the foreign aid authorization bill for schools and hospitals in Israel, and the total seems likely to be increased by the Senate.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which is presently drafting the foreign aid bill, has before it requests from individual senators to add $9 million for five other schools and hospitals in Israel not included in the House bill.

The growing practice of using the foreign aid bill as a vehicle for providing funds to foreign schools and hospitals, particularly in Israel, is beginning to cause concern among some members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and the House and Senate Appropriations Committee of specifying the projects, with schools and hospitals in Israel being the principal beneficiaries.

For more than 10 years, the basic foreign aid law has contained authority to provide funds to foreign schools or hospitals "founded or sponsored by US citizens." Until recently, however, no money has been provided as a general grant to the aid agency, without the projects being specified by congressional committees.

In the past two years, however, the practice has developed within the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House and Senate Appropriations Committee of specifying the projects, with schools and hospitals in Israel being the principal beneficiaries.

This, in turn, according to Fulbright, has led to considerable lobbying, with members of Congress recommending projects for inclusion in the foreign aid bill "to cultivate the favor of some of their constituents."

In this year's bill, the administration requested $10,175,000 for 10 foreign schools and hospitals. Three were in Greece, three in the United Arab Republic, two in Turkey and one each in Honduras and Lebanon. The principal beneficiaries would be the American University in Beirut with $5,785,000 and Robert College in Istanbul with $1,000,000.

As the bill came out of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and was approved by the house, $23,760,000 was provided for 30 foreign schools and hospitals, of which 12 were in Israel.

Aid For Israeli Schools And Hospitals Boosted

The New York Times

Washington — The House has included $10,750,000 in the foreign aid authorization bill for schools and hospitals in Israel, and the total seems likely to be increased by the Senate.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which is presently drafting the foreign aid bill, has before it requests from individual senators to add $9 million for five other schools and hospitals in Israel not included in the House bill.

The growing practice of using the foreign aid bill as a vehicle for providing funds to foreign schools and hospitals, particularly in Israel, is beginning to cause concern among some members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, especially Sen. J. W. Fulbright, the committee chairman.

For more than 10 years, the basic foreign aid law has contained authority to provide funds to foreign schools or hospitals "founded or sponsored by U.S. citizens." Until recently, however, the money has been provided as a general grant to the aid agency, without the projects being specified by congressional committees. In the past two years, however, the practice has developed within the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House and Senate Appropriations Committee of specifying the projects, with schools and hospitals in Israel being the principal beneficiaries.

This, in turn, according to Fulbright, has led to considerable lobbying, with members of Congress recommending projects for inclusion in the foreign aid bill "to cultivate the favor of some of their constituents."

As the bill came out of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and was approved by the house, $28,760,000 was provided for 30 foreign schools and hospitals, of which 12 were in Israel.

6,300 Persons Await Admission To Veterans Hospitals

24 Persons On Lincoln Waiting List

There is a waiting list of 24 patients at the Veterans Administration hospital in Lincoln according to acting director Gaylord Morton.

The rejection rate for applicants in Lincoln is about 26%, said medical staff chief Dr. John Clothier. Dr. Clothier said that this rate can be "considered to be about normal for a hospital of this size."

And Johnson said his agency is steadily improving the quality of care in its hospital network. "I firmly believe," he said, "the VA today is rendering better medical care to more sick and disabled veterans than ever before in history . . ."

Interviews with scores of patients at a dozen VA hospitals disclosed that most of them are, in fact, satisfied with the care they're getting, once they get in.

Most patients, however, said they were pleased with the care they're getting. "They're doing all they can to help us," said amputee Tommy Clack, 24, a patient at the Atlanta VA hospital.

Ted Chute, 23, a paraplegic from Puxport, Maine, who is a patient at West Roxbury, Mass., VA hospital, said: "I can't turn over in bed by myself and I have to be turned every two hours so I don't get sores. There have been a lot of times I've had to wait 3½ or 4 hours to get turned. I don't know if they don't have enough aides or if the aides don't care but whatever it is, I haven't always gotten the attention I'm supposed to get."

Similarly, at Hines VA hospital near Chicago, Glenn Mayer, 46, paralyzed from the waist down, said: "One day not long ago they took me down to the central bath for a shower at 10 in the morning. I didn't get back to the room until 2. My lunch was here waiting for me, but it was cold."

Upstairs in the orthopedic ward, a 24-year-old Vietnam amputee, former Marine Sgt. Richard Evans of Macon, Ga., said he had no complaints about the quality of care but "it look me three days to get into ward, a 24-year-old Vietnam amputee, former Marine Sgt. Richard Evans of Macon, Ga., said he had no complaints about the quality of care but "it look me three days to get into the hospital," where he is learning to walk on his artificial leg.

"I came in one day and waited from 8 til 4 without being seen," Evans said. "I finally saw the doctor the next day, but he told me to come back the next day. Then I had to sit four hours that day before I got a bed."

"That shouldn't happen," said the hospital director, Dr. Julian Jarman, when told of Evans' complaints. He said the average waiting time is less than two hours, although there have been "one or two instances where people have gotten lost."

Another Atlanta patient, Walter Johns, 22, Pearson, Ga., lost his leg to a Vietnam land mine. He said he had to make repeated trips to the hospital before being admitted for fitting of an artificial leg.

"I came in on Tuesday and they told me to come back on Friday," he said. "On Friday they told me to come back the next week. When I came in again, they told me to come back the next week. Finally I got in when I told them I had quit my job and was just laying around waiting to get in."

Wants Help Now

Jarman said Johns' account didn't gibe precisely with hospital records, and said admission was deferred because his stump had not fully healed from earlier surgery. Whatever the reason, Johns is unhappy.

"I'm tired of getting shoved around," he said. "I'm not leaving here until I get something done. I don't want to come back next year."

In Philadelphia, a dozen patients waited for admitting room physicians and nurses to return from lunch. Why didn't the patients go to lunch, too? "I did that yesterday," one said, "and I lost my place in line. I don't want to again. This is the second time I've been here."

The rejection rate at Hines, a 1,400-bed hospital, is about 25%, well below the national average. At Atlanta, the rejection rate is about 60%, among the highest in the country.

Atlanta's waiting list of 140 patients also is one of the longest in the country. Yet the hospital, which opened five doctor would see me."

Patients with service-connected injuries or illnesses receive priority for admission, a requirement set by law. Veterans with ailments unrelated to military service are treated on a first-come, first-served basis — or, in the case of crowded hospitals on a sickliest-patient-first basis.

In 1970, records show, VA hospitals rejected about 400,000 of the more than 1 million veterans who sought admission. Most of these, VA officials said, were examined and found not to need hospital care.

Veteran Turned Away

One of them was William Samulski, 57, a World War II veteran. When he became ill last Oct. 16, friends took him to Hines VA hospital near his Chicago home. There he was examined but turned away on the grounds that he was not an emergency case.

His friends took him immediately to a municipal hospital where, official's said, he arrived with no pulse, respiration or blood pressure. A half-hour later he was pronounced dead.

A special investigating panel formed by the VA questioned the judgment of the physician who turned Samulski away, and the physician took early retirement, said the hospital director, Dr. Lee J. Schlesinger. Samulski "would have died anyway," Schlesinger said, "but it is not our policy to move a patient under these circumstances."

The rejection rate at Hines, a 1,400-bed hospital, is about 25%, well below the national average. At Atlanta, the rejection rate is about 60%, among the highest in the country.

Atlanta's waiting list of 140 patients also is one of the longest in the country. Yet the hospital, which opened five years ago with room for 588 patients, has been operating with an authorized average daily patient census of 410. Its annual operating budget doesn't permit it to handle a daily patient load of more than 410.

Rooms Converted

On the hospital's top floor, several rooms designed for patient use are filled with records, supplies or equipment. Rooms elsewhere in the hospital have been converted into offices for the staff.

Jarman, the hospital director, said in an interview that "nobody who needs to be in this hospital at this time is not in here." However, an examination of the hospital's waiting list showed 10 veterans whose admission was rated "urgent," including one man with a service-connected kidney ailment. Three other patients with service-connected ailments were also on the Atlanta waiting list, although none was listed as needed urgent care.

Waiting lists at psychiatric hospitals usually are shorter than those at medical and surgical facilities.

At Perry Point, Md., the hospital has a waiting list of 99, including 68 diagnosed as acute psychiatric cases and 31 classified as psychiatric medically infirm, i.e. physically and mentally unable to care for themselves.

Forty miles away, the Coatesville, Pa., psychiatric hospital has a waiting list of only 10. It also has 24 empty beds in a tuberculosis ward.

"There always are about 25 beds vacant on that ward," said the director, Dr. Otto Schaefer. "We asked Central Office for permission to convert the beds for psychiatric use but they said no. They're afraid there might be a TB epidemic someday..."

6,300 Persons Await Admission To Veterans Hospitals

Washington (P) Veterans Administration hospitals, struggling to cope with the medical needs of a growing veteran population, have built up a waiting list of 6,300 patients even though they are rejecting four of every ten applicants.

The waiting list of eligible patients for admission to the VA's 166 hospitals has more than doubled since the first of the year.

The statistics reflects the growth in veterans rolls resulting from the Vietnam war, plus the fact that World War II veterans are growing older and more in need of medical care.

It also reflects annual operating budgets that are too small to permit full utilization of facilities.

1958 The Peak Year

While conceding that the 6,300-patient list is the highest in recent years, VA Administrator Donald Johnson said in an interview that it is only a fourth of the peak year, 1958, when 25,000 veterans were on the waiting list.

The VA, Johnson said, is treating more patients than ever before. Last year, it cared for 818,000 patients in its hospitals while logging 8 million "ambulatory care visits" — outpatient treatment or treatment by private physicians at VA expense.

24 Persons On Lincoln Waiting List

There is a waiting list of 24 patients at the Veterans Administration hospital in Lincoln according to acting director Gaylord Morton.

The rejection rate for applicants in Lincoln is about 26%, said medical staff chief Dr. John Clothier. Dr. Clothier said that this rate can be "considered to be about normal for a hospital of this size."

And Johnson said his agency is steadily improving the quality of care in its hospital network. "I firmly believe," he said, "the VA today is rendering better medical care to more sick and disabled veterans than ever before in history..."

Interviews with scores of patients at a dozen VA hospitals disclosed that most of them are, in fact, satisfied with the care they're getting, once they get in.

Almost invariably complaints involved delays in gaining admission, although some complained of inadequate attention.

Critical Of Attention

Ted Chute, 23, a paraplegic from Puxport, Maine, who is a patient at West Roxbury, Mass., VA hospital, said: "I can't turn over in bed by myself and I have to be turned every two hours so I don't get sores. There have been a lot of times I've had to wait 3½ or 4 hours to get turned. I don't know if they don't have enough aides or if the aides don't care but whatever it is, I haven't always gotten the attention I'm supposed to get."

Similarly, at Hines VA hospital near Chicago, Glenn Mayer, 46, paralyzed from the waist down, said: "One day not long ago they took me down to the central bath for a shower at 10 in the morning. I didn't get back to the room until 2. My lunch was here waiting for me, but it was cold."

Most patients, however, said they were pleased with the care they're getting. "They're doing all they can to help us," said amputee Tommy Clack, 24, a patient at the Atlanta VA hospital.

Wayne A. Webber, of Foxboro, Mass., left a paraplegic from a helicopter crash agreed. "They're treating me great," said Webber, a patient at West Roxbury. "The people here really helped me along."

On a typical weekday morning at the Atlanta VA hospital, every chair in the long, narrow waiting room was filled and dozens of people stood against the walls awaiting treatment or examination.

3-Day Wait

Upstairs in the orthopedic ward, a 24-year-old Vietnam amputee, former Marine Sgt. Richard Evans of Macon, Ga., said he had no complaints about the quality of care but "it look me three days to get into the hospital," where he is learning to walk on his artificial leg.

"I came in one day and waited from 8 til 4 without being seen," Evans said. "I finally saw the doctor the next day, but he told me to come back the next day. Then I had to sit four hours that day before I got a bed."

"That shouldn't happen," said the hospital director, Dr. Julian Jarman, when told of Evans' complaints. He said the average waiting time is less than two hours, although there have been "one or two instances where people have gotten lost."

Another Atlanta patient, Walter Johns, 22, Pearson, Ga., lost his leg to a Vietnam land mine. He said he had to make repeated trips to the hospital before being admitted for fitting of an artificial leg.

"I came in on Tuesday and they told me to come back on Friday," he said. "On Friday they told me to come back the next week. When I came in again, they told me to come back the next week. Finally I got in when I told them I had quit my job and was just laying around waiting to get in."

Wants Help Now

Jarman said Johns' account didn't give precisely with hospital records, and said admission was deferred because his stump had not fully healed from earlier surgery. Whatever the reason, Johns is unhappy. "I'm tired of getting shoved around," he said. "I'm not leaving here until I get something done. I don't want to come back next year."

In Philadelphia, a dozen patients waited for admitting room physicians and nurses to return from lunch. Why didn't the patients go to lunch, too? "I did that yesterday," one said, "and I lost my place in line. I don't want to again. This is the second time I've been here."

The rejection rate at Hines, a 1,400-bed hospital, is about 25%, well below the national average. At Atlanta, the rejection rate is about 60%, among the highest in the country.

Atlanta's waiting list of 140 patients also is one of the longest in the country. Yet the hospital, which opened five patients, has been operating with an authorized average daily patient census of 410. Its annual operating budget doesn't permit it to handle a daily patient load of more than 410.

Rooms Converted

On the hospital's top floor, several rooms designed for patient use are filled with records, supplies or equipment.

Rooms elsewhere in the hospital have been converted into offices for the staff.

Veteran Turned Away

One of them was William Samulski, 57, a World War II veteran. When he became ill last Oct. 16, friends took him to Hines VA hospital near his Chicago home. There he was examined but turned away on the grounds that he was not an emergency case.

His friends took him immediately to a municipal hospital where, officials said, he arrived with no pulse, respiration or blood pressure. A half-hour later he was pronounced dead.

A special investigating panel formed by the VA questioned the judgment of the physician who turned Samulski away, and the physician took early retirement, said the hospital director, Dr. Lee J. Schlesinger. Samulski "would have died anyway," Schlesinger said, "but it is not our policy to move a patient under those circumstances."

The rejection rate at Hines, a 1,400-bed hospital, is about 25%, well below the national average. At Atlanta, the rejection rate is about 60%, among the highest in the country.

Atlanta's waiting list of 140 patients also is one of the longest in the country. Yet the hospital, which opened five miles away, the Coatsville, Pa., psychiatric hospital has a waiting list of only 10. It also has 24 empty beds in a tuberculosis ward.

Communists Launch Many Attacks, But Sabotage Try Fails, Thieu Says

Saigon (P) — Communist command forces launched 60 small attacks across South Vietnam and pressed their offensive along the Cambodian border into a second week Sunday, but President Nguyen Van Thieu said they failed in their plans to sabotage the presidential election.

At least 28 South Vietnamese and one American were reported killed and 139 Vietnamese and one American wounded in enemy shellings, terror incidents, an accidental bombing by U.S. aircraft and street rioting by antigovernment demonstrators.

On the basis of still incomplete reports, eight of the dead and 38 of the wounded were casualties suffered by South Vietnamese troops on the Cambodian side of the border.

Pressing their offensive there, North Vietnamese forces kept a key South Vietnamese firebase isolated from its mother base at the Cambodian town of Krek and heavily shelled it for the eighth consecutive day. Seven South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 26 were wounded at the base, called Alpha, 4½ miles southeast of Krek.

Air Strikes

At the same time, U.S. fighter-bombers trying to ease the pressure on the Krek region with massive air strikes killed one South Vietnamese soldier and wounded 12 in an accidental bombing. The U.S. Command said the bombers struck very close to their assigned target but shortly before they dropped their bombs, a South Vietnamese unit moved into the area.

There was concern about Firebase Alpha and some U.S. senior officers expressed disappointment that the South Vietnamese had failed to launch a strong infantry and armored assault to relieve it from the artillery siege instead of depending on U.S. air power.

"Firepower alone isn't going to stop the enemy," said one American officer. "You're not going to stop them by air attacks. You've got to get out and find them. The South Vietnamese have been saying for three days they are going to launch a strong counterattack but they haven't done it. I don't know why."

Thieu, after casting his ballot at City Hall, said the Communists had planned an offensive to coincide with the election a long time ago.

Plan Disturbed

"They would like to attack in the demilitarized zone," Thieu declared. "They would like to attack anywhere they can. But

POGO

THE JACKSON TWINS

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:
Each year about 392 million tons of products are transported off U.S. farms — about one ton per cultivated acre.

Pharmaceuticals form the fastest-growing sector of South Africa's $490 million-a-year chemical industry, with sales of $189 million last year.

Denmark's national dish is roast pork with crackling.

Turkey's 1970 filbert crop of about 265,000 short tons (on-shell basis) was well above the 1964 record of 215,000 tons.

CHEESE WAS ONCE USED AS MONEY IN CHINA, WHALE TEETH IN THE FIJI ISLANDS AND DOG TEETH IN THE SOLOMON ISLANDS.

This is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters in each row give you.
